

Thomas Bäuml
Ph.D. candidate, University of Konstanz

“Shaping Crisis, Shaping
Religion:
Thinking Social Form in Schleiermacher's 'Speeches'”

Tuesday, April 15, 2008 @
4:00 pm
Library, 190 Hope St.

Reception to follow

Thomas Bäuml is a PhD candidate in German literature at the University of Konstanz, Germany, working with Professor Albrecht Koschorke. His dissertation project is on institutional thinking and institutional practice in Early German Romanticism. Currently he is employed in a special research group in Konstanz (Sonderforschungsbereich) which focuses on the symbolic and cultural dimension of social and political integration.

