

Tuesday (and occasionally Thursday) Lecture Series

The History Department is pleased to invite you cordially to the exciting line up of talks in this Spring's TLS (the Tuesday and occasionally Thursday Lecture Series). This series of talks explores new research and new initiatives being undertaken by members of the Department. We warmly encourage you to make the TLS a priority in your schedule, as it is a stimulating forum for intellectual discussion and intended for both graduate students and faculty.

The first talk will take place on Thursday March 15 at 4 PM in Room 104 at Peter Green House, 79 Brown Street.

Our speakers will be Naoko Shibusawa and Vazira Zamindar.

The talk is entitled

"Thinking Change Over Time, Making Change Over Time: Our Lives as Scholars and Activists"

Our second speaker will be James Green on Tuesday April 24 at 4 PM in Room 106 at Peter Green House, 79 Brown Street.

And the title of his talk is

"Writing Biography Backwards or Exiles within Exiles: Hebert Daniel, Gay Brazilian Revolutionary"

Excellent end of the day refreshments will be served at all these talks.
