6. Research Grants

a. Current Grants:

National Institutes of Health (NICHD) R01. Co-Principal Investigator (Principal Investigator: Kaivan Munshi). "Female Income and Family Welfare in India." (12/1/2004-11/30/2008), $607,500.

This project examines the effect of female income on household decisions and outcomes, including child health and education, female reproductive health, and marital violence, among tea plantation workers in Kerala, South India. Data collection includes a survey of 4000 female workers undertaken in December 2002-March 2003 and a qualitative component, consisting of in-depth interviews with 40 female workers and their husbands and 12 focus group discussions, conducted in January-February 2005. Preliminary fieldwork was undertaken February-March 2002.

National Institutes of Health (NICHD) R21. Principal Investigator (with Shelley Clark and Eliya Zulu). "Using Relationship Calendars to Improve Sexual Behavior Data among Kenyan Couples." (9/12/2006-8/31/2008), $266,053.

This project aims to improve methods of data collection for sexual behavior among youth and their romantic and sexual partners in Kisumu, Kenya. Using a life course approach, the project will construct retrospective relationship histories for 600 young females and males and interview these respondents' marital and nonmarital sexual partners to create a unique matched partner sample. Fieldwork was undertaken in June-July 2007. Preliminary fieldwork was undertaken February 2007.

Department of Sociology, Brown University. "Data Analysis for the Relationship History Project." (12/2007-5/2008), $2000.

c. Pending Grants:

National Institutes of Health (NICHD) R01. Co-Principal Investigator (Principal Investigator: Kaivan Munshi, with Ken Mayer, Brown Medical School and collaborators from the Tuberculosis Research Center and the Christian Medical College, India). “Using Community Participation to Improve the Health System in South India.” (6/1/2008-5/31/2013), $2,500,000. Submitted 10/5/2007.

This interdisciplinary project investigates where and why community participation can be successful in the treatment of tuberculosis in rural India. In a population of one million, two randomized control trials will be conducted to assess the performance of community members as volunteer DOT (directly observed treatment) providers and as volunteers in village TB case detection. Preliminary fieldwork was undertaken January 2007.
