

JOHN NICHOLAS BROWN CENTER WORKSHOP REGISTRATION FORM

PURSUING FREELANCE AND CONSULTING WORK IN THE PUBLIC HUMANITIES

February 11, 2010

Are you interested in breaking into the world of nonprofit consulting or freelance work? Do you have skills to offer but are unsure of how to connect with the organizations that might need them? Join us for a panel discussion on consulting and freelance work in the nonprofit / humanities sectors! You'll have the opportunity to hear from a variety of consultants and freelancers about the challenges and advantages of their work and to have your questions answered.

Jane Lancaster is an independent scholar and the author of three books and several commissioned histories. Deborah Obalil has fifteen years experience as an arts manager and organizational development specialist, with experience at both the staff and consulting levels in writing and implementing detailed strategic plans, and marketing and development plans. Shawn Parker is an independent museum and project management professional offering project management, program development to serve Spanish-speaking audiences, interpretive and educational planning, and exhibit evaluation. Madelyn Shaw is an independent curator and museum consultant whose experience includes curatorial and management positions at such institutions as the New Bedford Whaling Museum and the Textile Museum. Erin Wells is an exhibit designer with Museum Design Associates. She also works as a freelancer and teaches environmental design at the Art Institute of Boston.
