The Seventeenth annual Summer Fencing Camp at Brown University is a program focused on fencers at all levels in Foil, Epee and Saber from beginners to intermediates and competitors. Every camper must choose a weapon for the week. Those campers that attend both weeks may elect to alternate weapons on a weekly basis.

This camp program is designed to gradually increase in intensity throughout the daily activities. The activities are tailored to assess the individual camper’s ability to process the information, improve on previously acquired techniques and establish new ones. Progress is made according to the individual’s day to day results. Each of the three daily sessions provides campers with lessons in fencing theory, tactical/technical drills, group lessons, competitions and team events. The practice sessions are conducted with electronic scoring equipment. Between the daily sessions, activities such as soccer, basketball, swimming and running are also planned. Also planned is movie night one night each week.
