Paychecks not Cashed by Employee

Introduction
This policy states Brown University’s policy on stale dated paychecks.

Policy Statement
In accordance with the State of Rhode Island Abandoned and Unclaimed Property (escheat) Law, the University remits to the State of Rhode Island paycheck amounts for any paychecks that are not cashed by the payee for a period of one (1) year. After remittance by the University to the State of Rhode Island, payees who wish to recover the amounts due to them must make claims to the State, in accordance with escheat procedures.

Responsibilities
Employee: The employee is responsible for the timely cashing of a payroll check. If the stale dated payroll check has been remitted to the State of Rhode Island, the employee is responsible for contacting the state for return of the money.

Payroll Department: The Payroll Department will submit uncashed paychecks to the State of Rhode Island following State Law.
