Has Officer Shelton asked you how your day was today?

Title & Classification at DPS: Security Officer, Crime Prevention Officer

Hometown: Chicago, Illinois

Officer Shelton not only cares about the students, but he is constantly learning new things from them! He loves the diverse identities and perspectives the students bring to campus. Whenever Officer Shelton finds himself chatting with a student, he always makes sure he asks them, “Where are you from? If I went there, where would you tell me to go?” He always learns something new about where the student is from and will remember it too, for the next time they may happen to walk by!

We want to highlight the multiple hats he wears on campus. Not only does he register property and help with safety on campus, he is also a judge for the Black Student Union at Brown University's annual Pageant. Each year, he is invited to be a judge at the Pageant. He and his wife are guaranteed attendees. Officer Shelton is always so incredibly impressed with the talent featured, he finds his job as a judge very difficult. Yet, he would not have it any other way.

Officer Shelton was actually awarded a 2016 Excellence Award for Customer Service from the University!

Being a judge at the pageant is his absolute favorite time of the year (other than graduation) and he looks forward to it immensely every year.
