Brown University’s Code of Student Conduct Process

The Senior Associate Dean for Student Life (or designee) receives a report of alleged violation(s) of the Standards of Student Conduct (e.g. Department of Public Safety report, Campus Incident Complaint Form)

Is this potentially a Title IX case?
- Yes: See other chart for process regarding allegations of Title IX violations
- No: Report is evaluated to determine if there should be a hearing
  - Was the incident considered a potential violation of the Code of Student Conduct?
  - Yes: Peer Community Standards Board (PCSB)
  - No: Dean’s Hearing

Non-compliance of resolution

Possible resolutions:
- Mediation
- Warning Letter
- Dean’s Conference
- Health Education
- No Action

Investigation of allegation(s)

After investigation, should there still be a hearing?
- Yes: Should separation still be a possibility if found responsible of alleged violation(s)?
- No: Student may choose Student Conduct Board (SCB) or Administrative Hearing (AH)

Should separation still be a possibility if found responsible of alleged violation(s)?
- Yes: Student found responsible for violating the Standards of Student Conduct, sanction(s) and accompanying term(s) issued
- No: Sanction(s) and accompanying term(s) not completed

Sanction(s) and accompanying term(s) not completed
- Case closed
Sanction(s) and accompanying term(s) completed
- Student may file an appeal within 5 days of hearing outcome notification
  - Findings affirmed, sanctions and accompanying terms upheld
  - Findings affirmed, sanctions and accompanying terms modified
  - Decision remanded for further hearing

Student found responsible for violating the Standards of Student Conduct
- Case closed