Essay Writing Workshops are for students intending to submit an application for the Fulbright this fall. Registration and instructions for participation in the in person or online workshops will be shared approximately one week prior to the workshop itself. In person workshops are for students in Providence this summer while online workshops are for those who are away from campus and thus unable to attend in person workshops. Dean Linda Dunleavy and/or the graduate student Fellowship Advisors will be facilitating the workshops and leading discussions about the drafts.

If you are unable to participate in the workshops, you could submit drafts of your essays for review and feedback. Send drafts to Christopher Carr (Christopher_Carr@brown.edu) and he will share them with one of our graduate student fellowship advisors.

To learn more about these opportunities, please consult the fellowships@brown website. If after reviewing the website, you have specific questions Dean Dunleavy is available during her summer open hours on Tuesday’s between 2-4pm and/or by appointment.
