Dear Student,

Take It With You…While you have worked hard to get into your program of study – you are not done yet. Now start the preparations for life overseas. Let this handbook be your guide – it contains general information you will need before you leave, during your stay abroad, and as you prepare to return to your home campus. We encourage you to not only read through this handbook carefully, but to utilize our website (www.brown.edu/OIP) and if you are here at Brown, the Resource Library at OIP, to do further research before you leave campus. The resources in the library and on the website provide country-specific information, as well as information on travel, health, nutrition, women’s issues, sexual orientation questions, financial aid, working abroad, and more.

Be proactive…you will greatly enhance your experience abroad by learning as much as you can about your destination(s) before you leave.

Take this handbook abroad with you (really – we’re not kidding about this)! It will answer many of the questions you will have later about credit transfer, returning to Brown, etc. You will be glad to have it with you.

Congratulations on your decision to study abroad, and best wishes for a rewarding experience!

Brown Administrative Office Reminders 37
Welcome!

The Brown University Office of International Programs (OIP) provides undergraduate study abroad opportunities to approximately 500 students every year through semester and summer opportunities. As part of the Dean of the College, and in close partnership with Brown faculty, the OIP provides advising and resource services to students interested in study abroad, reviews applications and student records, manages Brown-sponsored programs worldwide, and verifies and processes credit transfer for study abroad students.

Address Changes
Please notify the OIP in writing of any changes in your current or permanent addresses and telephone numbers.

Brown University students should also change their address in Banner so their mail can be forwarded to the correct address. You can choose the option of having your mail held for one term if you'll only be abroad for a semester, or for two terms if you'll be abroad for an entire year. If you don’t change your address in Banner, your mail will be returned to the sender.

Pre-departure Orientation
One of the final steps in preparing for your study abroad semester is to attend the OIP General Pre-Departure Orientation. Peer Advisors and staff from the Office of International Programs present important information regarding study abroad, including some of the realities of being abroad (i.e. health and safety, as well as academic, student conduct, and other study abroad policies).

Attendance at one of the orientations is required for all Brown students studying abroad, regardless of destination or program.

For students participating in Brown-administered programs, program-specific pre-departure meetings are also held. These orientations give you a chance to meet your fellow students, find out more information about your program, and ask questions of program advisors and past participants. Each program begins on-site with an orientation to introduce you to your new location and cultural experience, as well as the academic expectations for the program.

Passports

For U.S. citizens

If you do not currently have a valid passport, start applying for one now! Some countries require that your U.S. passport be valid not only for the duration of your visit, but also for three to six months after your entry or return from their country. This means you have to check your passport expiration date carefully.

The process of obtaining or renewing a passport can take up to three months, depending on which procedure you follow. You may apply for a passport at most large post offices, such as the one in downtown Providence. You can access passport applications and consult general passport services information online at the U.S. State Department website: https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/passports.html.

To get your passport you’ll need:

• a passport application
• proof of citizenship, e.g. a birth certificate with a raised seal and filing date; photocopies are not accepted
• acceptable form of identification (such as a valid driver’s license or current government-issued ID)
• one passport photo (without wearing glasses)
• passport fee, execution fee, and if necessary, fee for expedited service. Please refer to the U.S. State Department website for current fees.

Please do not submit your passport application materials to the OIP.

Remember: Your passport is the most important document you have when outside the United States. Know where it is at all times. When you receive your passport, make several copies of the front pages and keep the copies separate from your baggage. You should leave a photocopy of your passport with your parents/guardian at home. Once in a foreign country, keep your copies in a safe place and ask your program to keep a copy on hand. This will facilitate replacement if your passport is lost or stolen.

Non-U.S. citizens

Please verify that your passport is valid for the amount of time you will be away. You will also need to consult with the international student office at your home institution to ensure that your time abroad is accounted for, and that your leave is compliant with current U.S. immigration policies.

Visas

U.S. citizens

Unlike a passport, which proves your citizenship, a visa is your key to enter another country. Visas are issued by the consulate or embassy of that country and must be obtained well in advance before you cross the country’s border. Visa requirements vary from country to country, so check with your program if on an Alternative program or with the OIP if on a Brown-sponsored program.
about specific requirements and documentation. Consulates and embassies are located in most large U.S. cities.

Please note: Students have been prevented from boarding their flights if they did not have the appropriate visas to enter a country. Please verify that you have the necessary documents for the country you intend to visit, as well as for those countries you pass through on a connecting flight.

Non-U.S. Citizens
Please verify visa requirements with the consulate of the country to which you are traveling (and transferring through on a connecting flight) in order to determine whether a visa will be required. Do this as soon as possible and notify the OIP of documentation you will need to apply for your visa.

Remember to check with the International Students office at your home school to ensure that your I-20 will remain valid upon your return to the U.S., if you plan to do so upon completion of the program.

Insurance Card & Claim Forms
Be sure to bring your health insurance card and copies of claim forms with you, in the event you need medical attention overseas. Please keep in mind that all health services provided abroad will usually require immediate payment after you have been seen by the doctor; health care providers will not simply bill your insurance, as they do here in the U.S.

Voting from Abroad
If you are interested in voting for elections that take place in U.S. elections (local, state, or federal) while you are abroad, you must request an absentee ballot. Contact your local, city, or township clerk or the Federal Voting Assistance Program at http://www.fvap.gov/.

Parent Passports
We encourage you to discuss with your parents or family members how they would be able to assist you in the event of an emergency while you are abroad. One or both of your parents or guardians may wish to have a valid passport for the period you are abroad, in the event of an emergency that would require them to travel to your program site on short notice.

Section II: Health, Travel and other Insurance

Health Insurance Requirements
All students are required to have comprehensive health insurance while enrolled at Brown.
You may be fully covered under your parents’ policy, or you may choose to purchase insurance through Brown University. If you have insurance coverage through another plan (e.g. through your parent or guardian), contact your health insurance company to verify that you are covered internationally. Under Brown University policy, students will automatically be enrolled in and charged for the Brown Student Health Insurance Plan unless they complete an online insurance waiver by the deadline established by the Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services (www.brown.edu/about/administration/insurance/); this ensures that all students have adequate medical coverage and access to comprehensive medical care.

Students must provide the Office of International Programs with information regarding their insurance policy in the Health Insurance section of the OIP Horizons application system. If you are studying on an Approved Alternative or Petition program, please check with your program provider regarding insurance requirements and plan specifics.

Brown Student Health Insurance Plan
The Brown Student Health Insurance Plan provides domestic and limited worldwide coverage. The plan provides the same benefits as if you were at Brown University and also includes Medical Evacuation, Return of Mortal Remains, and Global Emergency Medical Assistance Services. Students have access to a 24-hour worldwide assistance network for emergency assistance anywhere in the world, provided through UnitedHealthcare Global. Please refer to the Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services website for more information about plan coverage; if you have specific questions, please contact their office directly for details.

Students previously enrolled in the Brown Student Health Insurance Plan, but who were on a leave of absence during the semester before going abroad, will automatically be enrolled and charged the premium once they are an active student again. Full-time, matriculated students who go abroad in the spring may retain their coverage for the remainder of the school year if they are already enrolled in the Brown plan. Students not enrolled in the Brown insurance plan at the start of the semester prior to their departure may not enroll in the plan during their time away, and they should discuss with their parent/guardian how they will obtain insurance while away. Visiting students who are studying abroad on a Brown-sponsored program for the spring semester will automatically be enrolled in, but have the option of waiving, the Brown Student Health Insurance Plan.

Waiver for Students with Other Insurance Coverage
Students are automatically enrolled in and charged for the Brown Student Health Insurance Plan unless they complete an online waiver by the deadline established by the Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services (www.brown.edu/about/administration/insurance/). For more information on the waiver process, contact the Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services at 401.863.9481 or visit their website. If you have alternate insurance coverage comparable to the Brown University plan, it is your responsibility to determine if you have comparable coverage, domestically and internationally. Compare the benefits, limitations, and exclusions for your plan and the Brown University plan before filing your health insurance waiver. Below are some questions to keep in mind as you consider health insurance options for your time abroad:
• Will the plan cover me for the entire period while I’m abroad? (Some policies provided by a parent’s employer might cover medical expenses for brief stays abroad but not for the full term of a study abroad program.)
• Will the plan cover doctor visits and medication prescribed abroad?
• Is there a deductible? If yes, how much?
• Is there a dollar limit to the amount of coverage provided?
• What are the procedures for filing a claim for medical expenses abroad? Do I need to pay expenses up front and then submit receipts to the insurance company for reimbursement? Make sure that you get full information from your policy about how to arrange for routine treatment, medical emergency procedures, and what is required to pay for or be reimbursed for a claim.
• When does the plan begin and end?
• What do I use as proof of international medical coverage (if I need to use the insurance or if the host government requires documentation)?
• If I am not a U.S. citizen, will I be covered by your plan? (It has been our experience that international students must arrange for coverage with a company in their home country. Most of the policies we have looked at do not cover international students traveling in a country other than the U.S.)
• Will this insurance cover me in the U.S. for the insured semester if I decide, for medical or other reasons, to return before the end of the program? (If students have a serious accident or illness abroad, they may need to return to the U.S. for further care; it is therefore important that the student carry coverage that applies not only abroad, but in the U.S. during the study abroad period as well.)
• Does the plan cover pre-existing medical conditions? Are there other exclusions?
• Does the plan cover psychological conditions and counseling services?
• Does the coverage meet the minimum coverage amounts required by the host country?

Insurance Coverage and Program Dates
Medical insurance coverage is required for the program duration. Students whose medical insurance coverage is through Brown University and who are participating in Brown-sponsored programs that begin before the Brown Student Health Insurance Plan start date must make sure they are covered by insurance for the portion of the program that takes place before that date. If your program falls into this category, you will get information in your program-specific materials.

Health Care Payments and Reimbursement
Inquire with your insurance company about its international policies prior to leaving for your semester abroad. Carry a few blank claim forms with you in case they should be needed while you are abroad. Keep in mind that should medical attention be required abroad, it may be necessary for you to have sufficient cash on hand to make payment at the time of treatment. Many overseas health providers will not process U.S. insurance claims and will expect payment at the time of treatment. You and your family must be prepared to meet medical expenses up front, should you incur them. Students should have access to a minimum of $400 (either by credit card or cash/traveler’s checks) in the event that medical treatment is required abroad. Requests for reimbursement for medical care received while abroad should be submitted to your health insurance provider. Be sure to obtain a receipt to submit with your insurance claim for reimbursement upon your return to the U.S.
Brown Accident & Sickness Insurance Plan

In addition to the coverage provided by their own health insurance, all students are automatically covered by an accident/sickness insurance plan available for students studying abroad. The plan covers students during their program dates only (leisure travel before or after program is not covered), and it is NOT designed to replace the regular health insurance (students will not be able to waive the regular student health insurance plan with this accident/sickness policy). If a student experiences an illness or accident abroad and wishes to utilize the plan, they should contact International SOS directly (referencing Brown’s group membership ID #11BSGC000031). Please refer to the Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services web page (www.brown.edu/about/administration/insurance/) for further information, including a brief description of the plan’s coverage and benefits. Interested students may also purchase a supplemental leisure coverage plan if they anticipate travelling before/after their study abroad program dates.

ISOS Emergency Travel Assistance and Evacuation Services

All students are covered by International SOS Worldwide Assistance & Emergency Evacuation Services — including travel, medical, and security advice and services. The services provided by International SOS range from telephone advice and referrals to full-scale evacuation by private air ambulance. They also offer an emotional support plan for students abroad, which includes a limited number of counseling sessions at no cost (available either in person or via internet/phone). The SOS network of multilingual specialists operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year from SOS Alarm Centers around the world. You can access up-to-date reports on more than 170 countries on health issues, medical care, and vaccination requirements via the International SOS website.

Although International SOS is not health insurance, students should contact them directly to utilize the aforementioned worldwide assistance services, Brown accident/sickness insurance plan, or their emotional support services. When you contact SOS, you must reference the Brown Group membership #: 11BSGC000031. If you have questions about coverage, please call the Brown University Office of Insurance and Purchasing Services at 401.863.9481 or visit the International SOS website at www.internationalsos.com.

You can find your nearest International SOS Assistance (Alarm) Centers at https://www.internationalsos.com/locations. Please be aware that some of International SOS’s services carry additional charges. Should you request a service which has an additional charge, International SOS will inform you in advance and will require a credit card number in order to activate the service. If, in the event of an emergency, Brown University provides the financial guarantee to International SOS on your behalf, the University will bill you for this charge upon receipt of the actual amount by ISOS. Please know that such charges may not be billed until after you return from your program abroad.

Should an emergency arise while you are abroad, your first contact should always be with your sponsoring program. If you are traveling, and/or in a situation where you are not able to reach your contact for your sponsoring program, you should contact International SOS, who will work to meet your needs immediately and will contact the University’s on-call staff in the U.S. while coordinating services with Brown University.

Personal Property Insurance

It is important to purchase insurance against loss, theft, or damage to your personal possessions while abroad. You may also be covered by your family’s homeowner’s policy or rental insurance. The OIP does not insure the personal property of students on a study abroad program.
Section III: Health and Medical Care

Medical Forms
Students on a Brown-sponsored program are required to complete an online Health Information Form and Permission to Share Information/Health Conditions Agreement as part of their pre-departure materials (in Horizons). It is important that the OIP be made aware of any medical or emotional problems, past or current, that might affect you during your time abroad. The information you provide will be treated confidentially and only be shared with on-site Brown-sponsored program staff, and – if pertinent to your safety/well-being – with your parent/guardian and/or other professionals.

Students are required to notify the OIP of any relevant changes in their health that occurs prior to the start of the program. Once on site, please notify the program director or staff of any illness/medical condition so that they are informed and can help you if problems arise.

Students on Approved and Petition programs should also consult with their program providers about health information and other required medical forms.

Chronic or Long-Term Health Problems
If you have a physical or psychological problem that requires constant treatment or surveillance by a doctor, you should consult with your physician about the prospect of studying abroad. For example, if you are on medication, discuss with your physician the type of care you may need while abroad and the best way to continue your regimen. Seriously consider the consequences of stress from cultural adjustment and relying on different medical practices.

You should realize that the range of health care and counseling and support services available to you at your home campus will not be available overseas. Identifying your health issues prior to studying off campus will help you determine what resources will or will not be available while abroad. If you have questions about the resources available at your program site, please contact the OIP.

Prescriptions and Over-the-Counter Medicine
If you use prescription medication, bring enough with you to last for your time abroad, with a doctor's note or the original prescription to avoid problems with customs. Some prescriptions are unavailable, or are illegal, in some countries – research this well before departure, discuss alternative medication options with your doctor, and bring supporting documentation from your doctor if needed (see the OIP website). If you wear glasses/contact lenses, bring an extra pair and copies of your prescription, in case you lose/damage your original pair. Contact your doctor's office and health insurance providers to find out how to receive extended prescriptions. Mailing prescription drugs abroad is not advisable, as they may be confiscated by customs and require payment for you to obtain them. Bring a downscaled version of your medicine cabinet in addition to a first-aid kit. Stock up on non-prescription drugs you are likely to use, such as antacids, pain relief, anti-diuretics, etc. In certain countries it might make more sense to research the equivalents of non-prescription drugs you are most likely to use and buy them on-site.

Cultural Adjustment and Stress
Living in a foreign environment can be exhilarating, but also stressful. Adjusting to a new culture and/or communicating in a foreign language require flexibility and the ability to try and fail without much concern. While studying abroad, mild physical or psychological disorders that may be under control at home can be exacerbated under the additional stresses of adjusting to a new culture. If you are finding the adjustment period to be challenging, please let the program director or staff know.
Health Care Overseas
The manner in which medical help is obtained, the way patients are treated, the condition of overseas medical facilities, and how health care is afforded often are very different from U.S. practice. Be prepared for the reality that U.S. health-care values, assumptions, and methods are not universally practiced. Even the notions regarding the onset of illness or points at which expert attention is required will vary from country to country and from culture to culture. If you need medical attention overseas, ask for a hospital or clinic with English-speaking doctors or staff so that you are better able to receive proper care.

Immunizations
Check your health records to be sure that your childhood immunizations are up to date before any travel abroad. When you entered college, it is likely that your home institution required you to update your childhood immunization. For Brown students, these immunizations would include measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus/diphtheria, Hepatitis B, varicella (chicken pox) and the meningococcal vaccine (recommended). For more information, please see the Brown Health Services at http://brown.edu/Student_Services/Health_Services/services/injections.html. Visiting students should consult their college’s student health center.

You may also need immunizations and health screenings specific to your program location and/or personal travel destinations. It may take a minimum of two months to complete all immunizations for your travel, so plan ahead. The Centers for Disease Control (www.cdc.gov/travel) provides the most recent health information by country. Immunization requirements can change depending on prevailing health conditions, so please recheck those requirements with the CDC before beginning any round of immunizations. As each student’s personal health situation differs, we recommend you consult with your personal physician or campus health services about the advisability of receiving certain medications and immunizations.

Note: It is your responsibility to obtain the necessary immunizations and health screenings for your term abroad. If you plan personal travel to other countries before, during, or after the program, it is also your responsibility to know which immunizations and medical tests are required. Health insurance may not cover the cost of travel immunizations. Please check with your insurance carrier to determine coverage.

HIV/AIDS Testing
Some countries may require an AIDS test before letting you enter. Please check into this before you arrive at the airport because they will turn you away. For a list of HIV/AIDS testing requirements and specific entry/exit requirements for U.S. citizens based on country, please see http://travel.state.gov/content/passports/en/country.html.

Health Advisories
If you are traveling to remote areas, be aware of local health conditions abroad and of any public health service recommendations or advisories. For current health conditions and recommended vaccinations contact local health care providers (such as a travel clinic at a local hospital), the country desk at the State Department (tel. 202.647.4000), or the Centers for Disease Control at http://www.cdc.gov/. For more information on Health and Medical Care issues related to study abroad, see the OIP website.
Overseas Blood Transfusions and Blood Products
If you require surgery overseas and need a blood transfusion, remember that not all countries require the same standards for screening HIV-antibodies in donated blood. If you are injured or ill while abroad, avoid or postpone any blood transfusion unless it is absolutely necessary. If you do need blood, try to ensure that screened blood is used.

Food and Water
One of the most common ailments for travelers is diarrhea caused by contaminated food or drink. Standards for hygiene and health vary by country, and the safety of food and water may differ considerably. You can find CDC information, advice, and precautions to take concerning Safe Food and Water here: https://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/page/food-water-safety.

AIDS and other STIs
AIDS is a serious problem and still spreading throughout the world, but especially in developing countries. If you choose to be sexually active overseas, please be careful. Although most countries sell condoms, they may not be manufactured and/or stored properly so as to provide maximum protection against STIs. Always use a latex condom, preferably treated with a potent spermicide. Both men and women should bring their own supply of condoms and store them in a cool, dry place.

Malaria, Dengue Fever, Zika, and Other Mosquito-related diseases
Malaria is a serious illness and sometimes a deadly disease. Prevention of malaria involves protecting yourself against mosquito bites and taking antimalarial medicines. Risk of infection varies by country/region, time of year, and duration of stay. However, all travelers to countries where malaria is present may be at risk of infection. The CDC provides references and resources about malaria prevention and treatment at http://www.cdc.gov/malaria/.

The dengue virus is a leading cause of illness and death in the tropics and subtropics. The virus is transmitted by mosquitoes. There are not yet any dengue vaccines - the most effective protective measures are those that avoid mosquito bites. When infected, early recognition and prompt supportive treatment can substantially lower the risk of medical complications and death. The CDC provides resources about dengue at www.cdc.gov/dengue/.

Zika is a mosquito-borne virus that has no vaccine or cure. Symptoms include fever, rash, joint pain, headache, muscle pain, and conjunctivitis (pink eye). Approximately 80% of those infected may not have symptoms. Women who are, or plan to become, pregnant are most at risk of complications. The virus can also be sexually transmitted from men to their partner(s). Students in areas with active mosquito-borne transmission of Zika should follow mosquito bite prevention tips: use of an EPA-approved bug spray with at least 20% DEET, sleeping under a mosquito net, staying in air-conditioned buildings with window screens, using condoms if sexually active, and wearing long-sleeved shirts and pants. See the CDC website (www.cdc.gov/zika) for details.

Health Emergencies
The Office of Overseas Citizen Services in the State Department’s Bureau of Consular Affairs may be reached for assistance with emergencies at 1.888.407.4747 (if calling from the U.S. or Canada), or 202.501.4444 (if calling from overseas).

Health Resources
• The Centers for Disease Control (CDC): http://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/
• RI Department of Health: Travel Clinic Listings: http://www.health.ri.gov/for/travelers
Section IV: Academic Policies & Procedures

Students participating in study abroad programs coordinated through Brown University’s Office of International Programs are subject to the academic policies of the university, including the study abroad policies established by the OIP. In addition, students are expected to abide by the academic policies of the host university or program sponsor. For programs where courses are offered through a host university, Brown University policies take precedence.

Please visit the OIP website for more detailed information on foreign study guidelines.

Accommodations/Disability Information
Students who are studying on a Brown-sponsored program and who may need accommodations or services due to a disability or medical condition should contact Student and Employee Accessibility Services (SEAS) to discuss their needs and begin the registration process. This is the SEAS website: http://brown.edu/Student_Services/Office_of_Student_Life/dss/. Students should notify the OIP as early as possible in order to allow time to review the specific requests.

Disability-related requests for accommodations and services are evaluated individually, based on documentation and completion of the registration process. Please be aware that the level of accessibility, services, and accommodation to which you have access at your home campus may not be available at the program site and host universities.

Extension of Absence from Brown
Study Abroad Leave/Personal Leave
If you wish to extend your study abroad leave or request a personal leave to spend an additional semester abroad, please contact the Office of International Programs by email no later than October 15 to extend from the fall semester to the spring semester. Please include your Banner ID#.

Note: It is important that you contact your concentration advisor to verify that you will receive concentration credit if needed for any course work completed during the extended period. Save all academic course work from abroad (i.e., tests, quizzes, essays, syllabi for all courses) for the post-approval process.

Pre-register for your return semester
Brown students who are studying abroad will use the Banner online system to pre-register for courses, along with Brown students in Providence.

Visiting students should check with their study abroad office, registrar’s office, and/or faculty advisor to ask how pre-registration is conducted on their home campus for students abroad.

Course Enrollment Changes
If you make changes in your course enrollment while abroad, especially in the courses you plan to take for concentration credit, you should email your concentration adviser with information about the new course(s).

Your course load abroad must equal the equivalent of a full course load at Brown. A course load of 15-16 US semester hour credits is the minimum course load for all Brown study abroad students. A 12-semester hour credit program of study is not considered a full load for study abroad at Brown.
Credit Hour and Course Load Requirements
Due to the difference in credit-counting systems, the number of credits you take in your program abroad may not be equal to the number of credits you will receive for your work at Brown.

Credit earned abroad is not transferred on a course-for-course basis. You must maintain a full course load while studying abroad: the equivalent of four Brown courses per semester. In order to do so, you may need to take five or even six courses on some programs; on others, you may only need to take three courses. Do not assume that four courses taken abroad will equal four Brown course units.

<tbody>

<td>At least 15-16 semester credit hours</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tbody>

For systems that are not easily comparable, students must demonstrate that they completed full-time course loads in order to receive 4 Brown credits. It is important to note that a “normal course load” may not equal a “full” credit load. Students are encouraged to meet with a study abroad advisor to ensure requirements are met.

Students who complete more than a full credit load abroad will receive only 4 credits per semester on their Brown transcript, as mandated under the Brown Guidelines for Foreign Study.

Remember - Being a full-time student is not necessarily the same as taking a full course load. If you are not sure what constitutes a normal, full course load at your program or university, check with the Resident Director (if on a Brown or CASA program) or with the OIP (if on an Alternative or Petition program) in advance of making any changes to your course registration overseas.

NB: Please note that Brown University does not grant credit for practicums or internships, or for non-academic courses such as yoga, sports, or sailing.

Grading Requirements
In all cases you must complete a full load of courses as required by the foreign institution with the equivalent of a C or better grade (a C- grade will not transfer) in order to receive 4 credits per semester or 8 per year. You cannot take courses abroad S/NC. If you are on an Alternative or Petition program, your formal transcript must show a regular letter grade for each course.

Tuition Credit for Study Abroad
In order to earn a Brown degree, students must accumulate eight semesters of tuition credit, signifying the completion of eight semesters of full-time study. If, for any reason, you do not earn the anticipated number of semesters of tuition credit from study abroad, you should consult with an Academic Dean to determine how this shortage will affect your graduation date and discuss options for completing your degree requirements.
Retroactive Credit for Semester/Academic Year Programs
Students who do not obtain Brown pre-approval of semester or academic year programs before studying abroad will not be eligible for transfer of study abroad credit. You cannot take a personal or medical leave, then study abroad and apply for retroactive academic credit.

Early Return: Withdrawal or Dismissal from the Program
Students are expected to stay abroad until the end of the academic program (as defined by the host university, program, or American sponsor) and may not ask for early submission of papers, early presentation of papers, or early dates for exams in order to leave the program early. If you need to withdraw from a program or return to the U.S. before the completion of scheduled instruction and exams due to unforeseen circumstances, contact the Office of International Programs as soon as possible so that we may discuss the relevant policies and procedures:

- There is no guarantee that you will receive passing grades or credit for your course work abroad if you withdraw early.
- If a program is officially closed by Brown, faculty will evaluate work completed and a determination of credit transfer will be made.
- In the case of premature departure from a study abroad program, documentation of work completed abroad will be required. Course syllabi, papers, examinations, evaluations from instructors, and a recommendation from the director of the program are appropriate forms.

Obtaining Transfer Credit
In order to obtain credit for your study abroad experience, you must have an official transcript sent to Brown University that lists the courses you have taken and the passing grade received.

Brown-Sponsored Programs
Check with the International Programs Office at your host institution to verify that a transcript or some official document of evaluation will be sent to the Office of International Programs at Brown University, Box 1973. For students on the Brown in Germany program, a Scheine must be obtained from each professor and a copy given to the on-site program staff (it is imperative that you keep each original Scheine and give a copy to the on-site program staff).

For Approved and Petition Programs
Students on non-Brown programs must have the host institution send an official transcript to Brown’s Registrar:

- Attn: Study Abroad Coordinator
- Office of the Registrar
- Box K, Brown University
- Providence, RI 02912 U.S.A.
If the institution does not issue transcripts, you must have them send a certificate of attendance or diploma indicating the courses you took and a written evaluation of your work. Example: German universities issue Scheine or course-by-course evaluations upon request. In this case, you would ask for a Schein from each of your professors, and this would serve as your “transcript.”

It is your responsibility to verify with the Office of the Registrar that the transcript has been received and that the exact number of course and tuition credits are transferred to Brown.

The Course Approval Process

The Mandatory Pre-Approval Process

- Get pre-approval for your proposed academic study abroad plan. As part of the application process, you worked with your concentration advisor and the OIP to have the courses you will take abroad pre-approved. It is important that you understand what requirements a course must meet to count as concentration credit and what documentation you will need to bring back for post-approval.
- Register for a full load of courses as required by the foreign institution. Please consult with your program and the OIP to determine the full course load.
- Bear in mind that you'll need to pass each course with the equivalent of a C or better (a C- grade will not transfer) in order to receive 4 Brown credits per semester. You cannot take courses abroad S/NC nor can you audit any courses.
- Save all records from abroad. Keep all syllabi, exams, papers, notes, course reader packets, projects, and portfolios, and bring them back with you. Some departments will indicate that they wish to see your completed work prior to granting credit.

The Post-Approval Process

- Brown and CASA Programs: students who studied on these programs will be notified by the OIP when their study abroad transcript is available. Brown students who wish to obtain concentration credit for study abroad course(s) must complete the concentration approval process through the Declaration section in the ASK/Advising Sidekick system at Brown. Non-Brown students should follow their home institution’s protocol for obtaining transfer credit.
- Non-Brown Programs: Students will receive notification from the Office of the Registrar after the transcript has been received from their study abroad program. Once the Office of the Registrar receives your transcript, they will forward it to the OIP for credit evaluation. Keep in mind that non-academic courses and internships/practicums will not earn Brown credit – see page 12. When the OIP completes the credit evaluation process, your transcript will then be sent back to the Registrar so that they can post your course titles and credits on your record. Students who wish to obtain concentration credit for study abroad course(s) must complete the concentration approval process through the Declaration section in the ASK/Advising Sidekick system at Brown.
Transcripts
For Brown students on Brown-sponsored programs, all graduation credit will transfer automatically if you earned a grade of C or higher in your courses (but keep in mind that non-academic courses and internships/practicums will not earn Brown credit – see page 12). Transcripts from the Brown-administered programs are sent directly to the OIP. The OIP will notify you when your transcript is available for pick up. The only exception is the Brown in Germany program; participants must submit copies of all Scheines to the on-site program staff (be sure to keep all original scheines for your records) before Brown can process your grades.

Visiting students on Brown programs should work with their home institution to ensure that they are meeting academic requirements. Brown will ensure that all transcript materials from Brown programs are sent to your home university (as provided by the student on the Study Abroad Advisor Approval Form, which is part of the online application process).

Transcript Requests
Requests for Brown University transcripts will not be released until all financial requirements to the university have been met. Requests for transcripts generally require 3-5 business days for processing. Please allow additional time (5-10 days) if the request is being sent at the end of an academic semester. All transcript requests must be accompanied by an authorized signature of the requestor in accordance with the Federal Educational Records Privacy Act of 1974.

If you need to order a copy of your Brown University transcript while abroad for graduate school or other reasons, you will need to order it from the Office of the Registrar at https://www.brown.edu/about/administration/registrar/. From there you will obtain information regarding transcript fees and how to order a transcript online.

You will not receive letter grades on your Brown transcript. Graduate schools may wish to see your grades from abroad, in which case you must request an official transcript from the foreign institution and then include it with your graduate application. For students who studied on Brown-sponsored programs, transcripts from the host university can be obtained from the OIP.
Section V: Fees & Financial Matters

Program Charges and Billing
Although costs vary by site, the basic costs of studying abroad are often about the same as spending a similar period of time at Brown. For current cost information visit the OIP website at http://www.brown.edu/academics/college/special-programs/international-study/home/financial.

Bills are issued by the Bursar’s Office in late June for the fall semester, with a payment date of August 1. Spring semester bills are issued in November and must be paid by January 1. Review your current student account to be sure your balance is paid.

Important: If you are a Brown student and have received an incorrect bill from Brown University for the regular tuition, room and board for the semester abroad, it could mean:
   a) you have not signed your Study Abroad Campus Leave/Commitment form with the OIP. If this is the case, contact OIP as soon as possible. or
   b) you have recently signed your Study Abroad Campus Leave/Commitment form, but it has not gone through the computer Banner system yet. If “b,” contact the Bursar’s Office and tell them that you just signed your study abroad leave form.

Non-Brown students will have their Brown bill generated after they have turned in their Commitment Form to the OIP.

Brown University Office of International Programs Policy on Refunds
All students must submit a Commitment Form upon their acceptance to a study abroad program. For a withdrawal to be considered official, the student must notify Brown University Office of International Programs in writing. Upon official withdrawal from the program, a portion of the program fee will be credited to the student’s account based on the schedules below.

Withdrawal Prior to the Start of the Program
Any expenses (i.e., host institution fees, housing, etc.) that have been incurred by Brown on behalf of the student once the student has made a commitment to the program (via the OIP Commitment form) will be the responsibility of the student, and charged to the student’s account.

Withdrawal After the Start of the Program:
If a student withdraws from a study abroad program during the first five weeks of the program, he or she is eligible for a refund of Brown tuition payments based on the schedule below. Brown is not responsible for indirect costs paid directly by the student, including, but not limited to, housing, passport fees, vaccinations, and transportation costs.

NOTE: For students who leave because of a medical or family emergency, the same refund policy applies. A student who is suspended, dismissed, or withdraws while under investigation for misconduct will not have tuition payments refunded.

For Brown and CASA Programs

- Students who choose to withdraw from a program abroad and, subsequently, enroll at Brown during the semester that corresponds to their semester abroad will be responsible for all costs incurred up to the time they withdrew from the program.

- If a student withdraws from a program, any non-recoverable expenses charged will utilize the date of their written withdrawal notification when determining the financial penalties incurred.

- For housing or other fees paid directly to the host institution abroad, the refund policy of that institution will be in effect.

For Alternative and Petition Programs

- It is the student’s responsibility to understand the refund policies of programs sponsored by Alternative/Petition program providers.

- In those instances where the cancellation fee charged by the Alternative/Petition program provider exceeds the cancellation fee charged by Brown, the student’s Brown account will be charged for the amount of this difference. Brown will not award a diploma or process a transcript request until outstanding balances are paid in full.

Financial Aid

Brown students eligible for financial aid may use their aid for any study abroad program approved by Brown University. Financial aid awards will be based on the program’s cost of attendance, including airfare and living costs. Students will be eligible for grants and loans as if they were on campus, with the exception of Federal Work Study (FWS) and/or Campus Employment. The normal FWS or Campus Employment component of an aid package will be covered with additional loan funds, upon request. Please note that the amount of scholarship awarded for study abroad can vary depending on the program’s cost.

To apply for financial aid, please follow the Financial Aid guidelines/deadlines and complete all forms as you normally would each year at Brown. In addition to the regular financial aid forms, there are special steps for studying abroad. Students should consult the Office of Financial Aid for more information.
Brown Payment Plan
Students who are not eligible to receive financial aid, but use a Brown payment plan such as the Installment Payment Plan (www.brown.edu/about/administration/bursar/financing-options/installment-payment-plan) can continue to use the plan to cover Brown costs. Please contact the Office of the Bursar (401-863-2484) for more information concerning this plan.

Fellowships and Scholarships
Scholarships from sources other than Brown may be available to undergraduates for study abroad on specific programs. If you are thinking of applying for any fellowships while abroad, view the Fellowships page (www.brown.edu/Administration/Dean_of_the_College/fellowships/) on the Dean of the College website for deadline and application information before you leave campus.

Money Matters While Abroad
Before you leave, talk with someone who has lived in your country and find out what is the best way of banking for an extended period of time. Never send cash or traveler's checks through the mail.

- Wire transfer: U.S. banks can telex money to foreign banks. This process can be complete in a matter of hours/days and there is a fee.
- Bank draft/cashier’s check: You can request a bank to send a cashier’s check, or bank draft, to your account overseas. Be warned that clearing the check can take some time.
- American Express: You don’t need an American Express card to take advantage of their services. American Express can wire money from their American office to one of their overseas offices, where it can be picked up with appropriate identification. Since not all American Express offices can prepare money orders or cable money, you should call your local American Express office for a list of offices abroad that can provide these services.
• ATM cards: You may be able to use your ATM card to withdraw money from your bank account in the U.S. This is an easy way to access your money while abroad. Check with your bank to find out where your ATM card can be used, if they have partner banks abroad (which may have reduced fees for withdrawals), what fees are involved, and ensure that your PIN has the appropriate number of digits for ATMs in your country.

• Credit Cards: Be sure to acquire a PIN for your credit card before you leave the U.S. Keep in mind that some vendors abroad may no longer accept ‘swipe’ type credit cards, as they may only process transactions with ‘chip’ cards. It is a good idea to have some extra cash on hand if your card does not have a ‘chip,’ or if a vendor will not take credit cards. Some banks may charge a fee for each purchase/transaction abroad. Credit cards make foreign currency transactions easy and they are invaluable in a financial emergency. However, use them wisely! With credit cards it is easy to overspend. Also remember that you will be hit with finance charges for cash advances on your credit card. Make a cash advance only if you have no other option for getting money.

• Travelers Checks: While travelers checks are a safe option of bringing funds into your study abroad destination, they are becoming increasingly cumbersome for financial transactions.

Note: Contact your bank and credit card companies to inform them you will be using your card overseas. This ensures they are aware you will be using your credit/ATM card abroad, so that they do not freeze your account. For any credit/ATM card, keep all of your account numbers/contact numbers in a separate, secure place for reference.

Traveling with Money
Depending on where you are going, you may want to consider travelers’ checks to bring large amounts of money with you. Also, buy about $100-$200 in local currency before you leave the U.S. You want to be prepared for taxi rides and a night in a hotel in case you arrive and the banks are closed. While traveling, a money belt worn under your shirt or pants will allow you to keep your passport, money, and credit cards on your person at all times.

Budgeting
Learning how to budget your money while abroad will take some time and careful observation.

• Have a budget and know what you can spend. Keep a daily expense account the first couple of weeks to be able to plan a budget for your entire stay.
• You will probably spend more money on arrival than at any other point. Be prepared. You are still unfamiliar with where to find the best bargains and with the exchange rate.
• Know that some businesses may not accept debit/credit cards, ‘swipe’ credit cards, or credit cards without a PIN number.
• Be alert for special rates and discounts wherever you go, and know what is available in terms of youth or student discounts with your ID.
• When you travel, consider staying in youth or student hostels. Unlike hotels, which cater to tourists and business travelers, hostels are inexpensive, usually dorm-style hotels for young people found in many countries of the world.

Currency
Keep an eye on the exchange rate. Try not to think in terms of dollars, although when you first arrive, it is expected. Never exchange money outside of official banks or exchange offices. You can check exchange rates and currency conversions at https://www.xe.com/currencyconverter/.
Section VI: Travel Information

Travel Arrangements
Students studying on Brown and CASA programs are responsible for making their own flight arrangements. Some programs have a specified arrival time and place, so that all program participants can be met as a group by program staff. If this is the case, it is essential that you make your flight or other travel arrangements so that you can rendezvous at this designated time and place.

If you are studying on an Alternative or Petition program, verify your program’s travel policy. Some program providers will arrange group transportation (and in some cases require it).

Do not leave travel arrangements to the last minute. Book your travel as soon as you know when and where you have to arrive and when you have a good estimate of your return date. OIP strongly recommends that you book a round-trip (not just a one-way) reservation. In many instances, a round-trip ticket is required either as part of the visa application process or by immigration officials as proof that you are leaving the country at the end of your stay. Check to see if changing a return flight date carries a penalty. One-way return flights are usually very expensive and you may not be able to get a return reservation that suits your needs. Flying stand-by can also be risky.

Section VII: Student Conduct & Safety

Personal Conduct
Brown University reserves the right to rescind admission to, or continuation in, any program if an applicant's academic or disciplinary record is not satisfactory.

- All participants in study abroad are expected to abide by the tenets of community behavior as stated in the Brown University Student Code of Conduct. Students violating the Code of Conduct at any time — prior to departure and while abroad — risk dismissal from their study abroad program.
- The Office of International Programs reserves the right to invoke University procedures to address any alleged student behavior which, if after appropriate review, is found to have violated Brown policies as outlined in the University’s Student Code of Conduct. Similarly, University proceedings will not negate any actions taken by the host institution or country.
- In addition, the Office of International Programs reserves the right to dismiss a student and require that they leave immediately if in our judgment the student behaves in a manner which endangers them, others on the program, or the program’s continued operations. For example, illegal drug use is grounds for immediate dismissal.
- If a student is dismissed from their study abroad program due to misconduct, the student is responsible for any financial losses incurred (i.e., airfare costs and other program expenses).

Safety Precautions
It is important to know of any safety concerns before you leave for your host country. The U.S. government monitors the political conditions in every country around the world. For current information, advisories, or warnings contact the State Department in Washington, DC. Call 202.647.4000 or consult https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/traveladvisories/traveladvisories.html.

For information on traffic-related safety conditions abroad, including bus safety information, please consult the Association for Safe International Road Travel at www.asirt.org. However, it is not recommended that students drive abroad, especially if unfamiliar with the location and driving laws.

General Safety Tips
Take the same precautions abroad that you would in any large U.S. city you are not familiar with.

- Do not walk in unfamiliar areas of the city at night or accept rides from strangers.
- Be careful with money in public just as you would be in this country.
- Become a professional people watcher. Watching the local residents and their habits is your best guide to safe behavior. The less you stand out the safer you will be.
- Learn about the customs and local laws of your country. Remember that you are subject to their laws and are not protected by U.S. laws.
- Learn to walk the way the locals do. People are able to spot an American immediately by their posture and walk. Beware that carrying a U.S.-style backpack will likely make you stand out as an American.
- Never leave your bags unattended. Never let a stranger watch your luggage while you go to the bathroom or purchase a ticket.
- Walk away immediately from any suspicious persons or packages and report them to the authorities after you are a safe distance away.
- Make three (3) photocopies of your passport ID page, airlines tickets, and credit/ATM cards. Leave one copy at home. Bring the second copy with you in case something gets lost or stolen abroad, and give the third copy to your program resident director. Bring extra passport size photos for obtaining student IDs abroad, acquiring a replacement passport if needed, or for obtaining a visa abroad.

• Beware of pickpockets and con artists. The most common sites for purse/wallet, phone, or camera snatchings are central train stations, public transportation, tourist sites, or crowded shopping areas. Thieves often strike when people are distracted: making a phone call or checking a train schedule, with a bag left unsecured or casually left at one’s feet.

• If anything is lost/stolen report it to the local police. Keep your police report copy for insurance purposes or in case you need to replace your passport or student visa. Report the loss of travelers checks to the nearest issuing office; passport to the local police and nearest U.S. embassy or consulate to apply for a new one; airline tickets to airline or travel agent.

• Before going to another country, check the country’s travel advisories and read safety, health, and travel recommendations for your destination. The State Department SMART travel section is very useful (http://travel.state.gov/content/studentsabroad/en.html). Register your trip with ISOS (https://www.internationalsos.com) before you depart.

• Be sure your program director has your contact information and knows where/when you will be traveling. Give a relative and/or friend a copy of your travel itinerary and contact information.

• Be sure your cell phone will work where you are traveling and keep it with you always - fully charged and turned on. Keep your program/resident director’s phone numbers handy in case you need them. Respond immediately to any calls, texts, or emails from Brown/CASA or your host program staff.

• Beware of date rape drugs, particularly when out in nightclubs. Sex trafficking is also a worldwide problem – take precautions and be vigilant, especially when out alone.

U.S. State Department “Smart Travel Enrollment Program”
The Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP) is a free service provided by the U.S. government to U.S. citizens who are traveling to, or living in, a foreign country. STEP allows you to enter information about your upcoming term abroad so that the Department of State can better assist you in an emergency. STEP also allows Americans residing abroad to get routine information from the nearest U.S. embassy or consulate. Please take a few moments to register for this service at http://travel.state.gov/content/studentsabroad/en.html.

The U.S. Embassy or Consulate WILL:
• Issue you a new passport or replace one that is lost/stolen.
• Contact the State Department at their expense for further instructions if you cannot verify your citizenship.
• Help you find medical/legal services in case of an emergency, and help notify friends/family.
• Tell you what to do if something is stolen and have funds wired on your behalf, if necessary.

The U.S. Embassy or Consulate WILL NOT:
• Give or lend money or cash checks.
• Serve as a travel agent or information bureau.
• Act as interpreters or couriers.
• Provide bail or get you out of jail.
• Arrange for free medical or legal services.

Registration with Local Authorities
In many countries, you will be required to register with the local police station upon arrival. Your program director abroad will inform you of local requirements.
Local Laws
Outside the U.S., you are responsible for obeying all host country laws and penalties, which can be different, and more stringent, than here. Do not assume you will be treated gently because you are an American. Sometimes, punishments for Americans are harsher than for the local population. Be aware that when you are in a foreign country you are subject to its laws and not protected by U.S. laws. Ignorance of the law is not an excuse. It is important that you learn about local laws and regulations and obey them. Approximately 3,000 Americans are arrested abroad each year. One-third is arrested on drug charges. Many countries do not provide a jury trial or accept bail, which could mean a lengthy pre-trial detention. In addition, prison conditions in many countries can be extremely harsh and officials may not speak English. You could face very stiff fines or sentences if found guilty of a crime.

It is unlikely that Brown OIP or any study abroad program will be able to intervene on your behalf if you are arrested or prosecuted for any illegal violation. If you become involved in a legal problem, please contact your study abroad program staff, international student office, and Brown’s OIP immediately.

Substance Abuse
Alcohol or drug use abroad carries serious consequences. Use and abuse of drugs and alcohol bring increased risks of possible injury, assault, and even death, as well as legal penalties. Alcohol abuse abroad may occur because of a lower drinking age, a mistaken impression of how alcohol is used abroad, or a desire to fit in with the local culture and community. Most countries have very strict drug laws. Long trials, prison sentences, and even the death penalty can result from drug possession. Even if you find yourself somewhere that drugs are available and you are not using the drugs - but others around you are - you could be in big trouble. You should leave immediately if this happens. Please keep in mind that if you violate local alcohol and drug laws, there is very little the U.S. government or your study abroad program can do for you. See the U.S. State Department website for further information. NB: Illegal drug use is grounds for immediate dismissal from your program.

Sexual Harassment and Study Abroad
Cultural difference in interactions on romantic or sexual levels can be a problem area: some behaviors might be very inappropriate in the U.S., but considered perfectly acceptable in the culture in which you are living, and vice-versa. Some of the new behaviors will be relatively easy to adjust to, but others pose more of a problem. Sexual harassment is a particularly difficult area because of the extreme variance in acceptable behavior between cultures. Combined with the different social and legal responses to such behavior, sexual harassment when abroad can be a difficult scenario to deal with; fortunately there are ways to prevent or lessen the negative consequences.

In the United States many people believe that it is possible for a non-sexual relationship (i.e. friendship, companionship) to exist between men and women. However in many other cultures this belief can be just the opposite, stated simply it is difficult or impossible for non-sexual relationships to exist between men and women. Until one is fully aware of the cultural norms combined with the verbal and non-verbal clues that he or she is sending, one must be very mindful of the emotions and expectations that are evolving. In our society it is not uncommon to rebuff an unwanted sexual encounter by saying, “I’m seeing someone,” or “I have a boyfriend/girlfriend.” While the contextual clues for that type of statement are generally understood in the U.S. to mean, “Leave me alone” or “I’m not interested,” in another cultural context it might actually be understood as an encouraging response rather than a signal of discouragement. Clear, direct, and unambiguous responses may be difficult for many Americans to deliver, but these strong responses are crucial for clear understanding in a cross-cultural situation. “I do not want to go out with you, please do not ask me again” is a much more direct and stronger way of expressing your true thoughts about the situation.

Informal resolution of your sexual harassment problem may be possible. You are encouraged to contact the appropriate person on your host campus/program to report any behaviors that you feel are sexually harassing. They should be able to assist you in sorting out the situation in a culturally appropriate way. If these campus/program representatives are unable or unwilling to assist you, please contact the OIP, and we will assist you in this matter.

Interpersonal Violence and Sexual Assault

Students who have experienced interpersonal violence, sexual assault/harassment, or stalking may seek confidential advocacy and support from Brown advocates via a hotline that is available 24 hours per day, every day. Students may also seek information about their resource and reporting options from the Brown Title IX Office (brown.edu/titleixoffice) by calling 401-863-2386 or emailing them at <titleixoffice@brown.edu>. If you experience sexual assault abroad, let your program staff and the OIP know.

Dealing with Personal/Family Tragedy While Abroad

Although it is very unlikely that your family will experience a tragedy while you are away, there are resources available to help if such an event occurs. Since you are far away from home, you may feel helpless and alone – but that is not the case. Below are some ideas to assist you during such a difficult time.

- Report the tragedy to your Resident Director or head of the International Office as soon as possible. They may be able to intercede on your behalf with faculty members or other administrative offices if necessary. They must know if you plan to return home for a short or extended stay.
- Contact the Office of International Programs at Brown (especially if you are on an Alternative program) so that we know about the tragedy and your plans. We may also be able to assist you if necessary.
- Ask your Resident Director or International Office about counseling services that are available in your host community.
- Share with friends or your host family for support.

Important Contact Information

As a precautionary measure, keep emergency contact numbers of various family members in one place (such as in your phone and at the end of the Study Abroad Handbook) so that you can access them quickly. In addition, it is always important to keep contact information for your host family or roommates, program/resident director, and the OIP. If you are traveling over weekends or breaks, please be sure to provide the program/resident director with your cell phone number and any travel itinerary in case they need to contact you while you are traveling.
Section VIII – Cultural Adjustment

Most people will experience some difficulties adjusting to their new country and culture. This is totally normal, and should be expected. Cultural adjustment, or “culture shock” as it is commonly called, comes from being cut off from things you are familiar with. Culture shock doesn’t result from just one event, and it doesn’t strike suddenly, or with any cause. It builds slowly from a series of small events. It also comes from living and working in an ambiguous situation. Living abroad will make you question your values, which you may have taken as absolutes before. You won’t be able to identify culture shock while you’re struggling through it. But with patience, you’ll be able to overcome it and grow in the process.

Stages of Cultural Adjustment

While people react differently to the changes, studies have shown that there are distinct phases that almost everyone will experience. These stages are:

1. Initial Euphoria
   Everyone arrives excited about their new country and the adventures that lie ahead. This is often called the “honeymoon period”. This period may last anywhere from one week to a few months, but it does fade away and a let down is inevitable.

2. Irritability and Hostility
   After you’ve been in a country for a while you’ll be taking a more active role in your community. Little differences and problems will seem like huge catastrophes. This is the most difficult part of being abroad. Some people will want to withdraw; others will act aggressively when faced with a situation.

3. Gradual Adjustment
   The crisis period will eventually fade too. You’ll be feeling more at home in your surroundings. You’ll begin to interpret some of the cultural cues you hadn’t noticed before. With this sense of familiarity your sense of humor will also return.

4. Adaptation
   You now feel at home in your new country and can function in both cultures. You have learned new behaviors and manners, and have shed some of your old ones. You’ve done such a good job of adjusting to your new country that now you can anticipate experiencing “reverse culture shock” once you return to the U.S.

Help for Culture Shock

Since culture shock is inevitable there is not much you can do to avoid it. But there are things you can do to minimize the impact:

• Remember that culture shock happens to everyone who lives abroad. You’re not the only one who has gone through this.
• Write a journal to keep a record of your first impressions.
• Try to look for logical reasons behind everything in your new culture that seems strange or confusing. Try to look at things from their perspective. For every behavior you don’t understand, try to figure out what its underlying value is.
• Write up a list of all the positive aspects of your new culture and try concentrating on the positive, and not the negative.
• Avoid making negative comments about the local people. These ideas only reinforce your feelings of superiority, and will prevent you from ever adapting to your host country.
• Avoid Americans or other foreigners who are having a rough time adjusting to the country. Do not join in on rag sessions on your host culture. Instead, find an American who has been there for a while, has successfully gone through culture shock, and has a positive attitude. This person will help you get perspective on the host culture.
• Make close friends with host nationals. Having close intimate friends will help you learn about your new culture, and give you someone to listen to your problems.
• Keep active, don’t sit at home and feel sorry for yourself. Try taking a weekend trip to get away, you may return refreshed and with a new perspective.
• Have faith in yourself that you will get over culture shock. You will feel better over time.

Diversity Considerations Abroad

Students abroad face a new cultural context that includes different historical and cultural understandings of race/ethnicity, gender identity, sexual orientation, and disability. Customs, beliefs, laws, facilities, and social practices are likely different than in the U.S. Before you depart, think about what it is going to be like to be "you" abroad, the various ways you might identify yourself, and how these identities define you in the U.S. These definitions might change in your host country, and you may encounter stereotypes, questions, and curiosity surrounding your identities. Think about your expectations versus what the reality might be abroad, and be prepared if your experiences lead to feelings of frustration, isolation, and fatigue. However, while you may face challenges, remember that being in a new cultural context is a wonderful opportunity for change and growth - and it will provide you with a new perspective on the structure of different societies.

Below are a few things you can do to prepare yourself for potential culture shock:

• Read about the host country’s history, culture, laws, and demographics
• Reach out to students who have studied abroad in your host culture (OIP can provide names of former study abroad students)
• Make use of online resources that offer advice, personal narratives, and other information
• Visit the OIP website (www.brown.edu/academics/college/special-programs/international-study/student-resources/while-abroad/diversity-while-abroad)

Her Own Way:
Re-entry Shock
One of the greatest challenges of studying abroad is coming back home. Many people expect to have difficulty adjusting when they go abroad, but no one expects to have problems when they get back home. This is what’s called “re-entry shock”. You’ve just had an amazing experience abroad and you want to talk about it. Unfortunately, your parents and your friends may not be as interested as you would prefer. You’ve learned about a new culture and, chances are, you’ve changed some of your old values and ideas, and you may have trouble re-assimilating into American culture.

Life at Brown or at your home college may look completely new to you after spending a year or semester abroad. Many students have difficulties readjusting to the hectic schedule and the stress on campus. Again, re-entry shock is inevitable and even the best-prepared students will have some problems getting back into the swing of things. These suggestions might help you during your first few months back:

• Remember what you did when you were abroad and adjusting to your new country. Use those same techniques that helped you cope then to assist you with your readjustment now.
• Play the role of the observer, not a judge. It’s easy to criticize, much more difficult to understand. You’re looking at American culture from a very unique standpoint now. Take your time and think about what you see.
• Expect to feel frustration and depression. Knowing this will happen will not prevent these feelings, but it will keep you from feeling overwhelmed.
• Take your time. Don’t rush into big decisions if you’re depressed.
• Become active with the Brown OIP or with the study abroad office at your home school. The OIP sponsors several activities for Brown students, including:
  • Returned Student Events are held each semester to welcome you back to campus.
  • Peer Advisors are hired to help staff the OIP Resource Library, serve as primary contacts for students interested in study abroad, and provide administrative support to the OIP staff. Job openings are posted on Brown’s student employment website.
  • Join campus groups or activities with an international focus. See the Returned Students section on the OIP website for some ideas.
  • Connect with the local international community off-campus through cultural events, volunteering and community service. See the Returned Students section on the OIP website for some ideas.
  • Go abroad again – consider summer study, fellowships, or research your options for international work opportunities or internships abroad.
  • Integrate your study abroad experience into your program of study. Take courses that deal with issues you became interested in while abroad, or consider an independent study, senior thesis or research project that builds on your international experience.

Re-entry can be tough, but with time your re-entry shock will fade. Remember, you’re a veteran of culture shock. You’ve faced more difficult and trying situations and came out on top. You will readjust to life in the U.S. and to your home campus, too.
Section IX – Practical Tips

What to Bring
Plan your wardrobe carefully so that you take as few clothes as possible. Remember the golden rule of packing:  Lay out everything you want to bring, get rid of half of those things, and bring twice as much money.

- Don't pack things that you can buy in your host country. You will be able to buy toiletries and school supplies almost anywhere. You don’t need to weigh down your suitcase with bottles of your favorite shampoo. Be aware, however, that certain American favorites may not be sold abroad. Check the manufacturer’s website for information regarding where their products are sold.
- Don’t pack a lot of clothes. In most countries people wear clothing several times before washing it. You’ll also probably buy clothes while you are abroad so you’ll need to save room in your suitcase.
- Some countries might require more culturally-sensitive clothing. Keep this in mind when packing and aim to buy more clothing once in your host country.
- Pack clothing that is versatile and sturdy. You’ll want at least one set of nicer clothing for evenings out, but otherwise make sure your clothing can take a good hand washing. Good walking shoes or hiking boots are a must.
- Pack necessary prescription medicine, contraceptives, tampons, etc. Some of these items are not readily accessible overseas. Bring a copy of your prescription with the generic name of the drug in case you need to buy more (see prescription medication section of handbook).
- Pack some things from home. You’ll want to have pictures of your home, family and friends. This will make a big difference when you get homesick. Also, bring some small gifts for new friends, neighbors, and host families, such as key chains, pens, and postcards.

Clothing to Consider
Rainproof walking shoes
Flip-flops for the showers in hostels

Staying in Touch
While you are abroad, keeping in touch with people back home will be very important. Trying to place international phone calls or send letters home can sometimes be frustrating and expensive.
Email and other internet-based options are alternative ways to keep in touch. With patience, and a sense of humor, you will be able to communicate with home.

Postal Services Abroad
Depending on where you are and the quality of the postal service, surface mail can take weeks (in some cases, months) to arrive. Airmail can take up to a week just to arrive in the country, getting it to your local address will add additional days. Sending packages can be expensive, and there is no guarantee you will receive your package “untouched.” There is little you can do to change the postal system in your country. If you live in a city that has a small post office try to get to know your postal workers and make them your friends.

Telephone Services Abroad
Should you or your parents wish to make a direct-dial international call from the U.S. the usual procedure is:

1. Dial the International Access Code: 011
2. Dial the country code (normally a 2- or 3-digit number)
3. Dial the city code (normally a 1- to 5-digit number)
4. Dial the local number abroad

- For an operator-assisted call (i.e. person to person, collect, credit card, or billed to a third number), follow the foregoing instructions but use “01” instead of “011” for the International Access Code. The operator will then come on the line to ask for the information needed (e.g. the name of the person you are calling or your credit card number). Direct-dial calls made with the “011” International Access Code are the equivalent of station-to-station calls. Unless you expect your party to be immediately available, this can be a bit risky. No matter who answers at the other end, you will be billed the minimum charge based on the first three minutes of conversation.
- You can get the country and city codes you need from any long-distance telephone company or directory, or through an internet search for “Country Codes.”
- The subject of finding the cheapest and best ways to phone home while abroad generates a lively exchange on such posting boards as Lonely Planet’s “Thorntree” forum (thorntree.lonelyplanet.com), Rick Steve’s “Travel Forum” (www.ricksteves.com) or the forum at tripadvisor (www.tripadvisor.com/ForumHome). For someone with a specific question—say, “What is the best place to rent a cell phone in Rio?”—these forums are a good place to find up-to-the-minute information.
- Video chat through services like Facetime, Skype, Oovoo, or Google Hangout.
- Cards for Calls: One convenient option is to use an international phone card, such as AT&T cards or GlobalPhone cards from IDT (www.idt.net); with IDT cards, you can also create mailboxes for voicemail.
- Mobile Phones: Newer mobile phones that can operate on any of the three wireless frequencies in place worldwide are becoming more common in the U.S. Global roaming rates still remain high, between 99 cents and $4.99 a minute, so be sure to check with your phone company to learn all of the rules before you go abroad. Some providers offer international calling/texting package plans that may be less expensive, but you need to sign up for them.
- SIM Card: Buying local SIM card and paying for minutes is a great option. Contact your current wireless carrier to determine if the equipment you currently use is SIM-compatible.
- Phone Rentals: You can rent globally-enabled cell phones from a company like TravelCell at www.travelcell.com or Cellhire at www.cellhire.com. For those traveling where there is no cell phone service, the companies offer satellite phone rentals. The cost is significantly more than a regular cell phone, but incoming calls are usually free from anywhere in the world and outgoing calls cost approximately $2 per minute.

- Local Cell Phone Purchase: consider buying an inexpensive local phone/package on-site, such as a local pay-as-you go phone without a contract.
- Whatever you do, do not use the 800-number posted on public and hotel telephones, whether calling collect or with an ATM credit card number. Charges can be $30 to $50 for calls under five minutes.

Note: Many host families will not allow their exchange student to make long distance calls from their family phone because of billing systems that do not itemize each call. If this is the case, you should make other arrangements to make an international call.

Remember that you will most likely be operating in a different time zone while studying abroad. Keep this in mind when making calls back home!

Email

At most sites, you should have an internet connection that will allow you to access your Brown/home email, although you may find connectivity less reliable than in the U.S. At remote sites, email access may not be readily available. If you do not have direct access to a network or other internet connection at your site, you will need to open an account with a local ISP (Internet Service Provider) to be able to connect to the web. Once you have established a connection, you can access your email through Gmail or any other account to which you had selected to have your university email forwarded.

Managing your Brown Profile and Email Account

It’s a good idea to regularly check your Brown profile. You can do this online via myAccounts (http://brown.edu/myaccount).

This allows you to:

- Change your password;
- Change where your email is delivered;
- Add alternate email addresses;
- Check your quota on the central email service;
- View and change your entry in the campus electronic directory

When you first enter myAccount, you will see your directory information. From this screen, you can see what your entry will look like from on campus and off and also learn about how to change those fields that are not editable on-line. Other functions in myAccount are available from the menu along the left. If you discover irregularities in your profile, have questions or need assistance, please contact the CIS Help Desk at 401.863.4357 or help@brown.edu.

Storage
Brown Student Agencies partnered with College Storage RI to provide storage services to the Brown community; while this service is primarily geared to summer storage, storage options may also be available for students who will be away from campus for a semester. If you need to store belongings while you are studying abroad, other storage services like College Boxes provide boxes and supplies, pickup, storage, delivery, and shipping (national and international) services to and from school for college and university students.

International Shipping
If you bought too many things while you were abroad and don’t have the luggage space to bring everything back to the U.S., you should consider international shipping options. You could mail your belongings home through the local post office. Check out the rates on either the postal service’s website or at a local site. A second option is to use a private mailing service, such as UPS or DHL. Be sure to ask your program provider which service they recommend because sometimes they may have arranged for discounted services for students on their programs. Finally, consider purchasing another travel bag to pack your belongings and bring them home with you; with some airlines, the extra baggage fee is relatively low.
Section X: Career Development & Study Abroad

The time spent studying abroad can also be time spent thinking about what you will do after you graduate. In order to start or continue career exploration, some students arrange an internship while studying abroad to complement their studies. If you are thinking about pursuing an international career, you’ll want to plan ahead to best take advantage of opportunities. Check with counselors at the career development office at your home school before you leave or plan to email with them while you are away.

Considering working abroad while you are studying or is an international career in your future? Some things to think about…

Before you go…

Check with Alumni Relations to find alums who are living in the city/country where you’ll be. Brown students should note that there are Brown clubs in over 60 cities around the world.

Talk with current students who are back from your study site. The OIP Resource Library has a contact list of returned students. Did any of them work or have an internship while there? If yes, did they do it during the semester or after? How did they arrange it?

Prepare a resume. You never know when you will need it.

Meet with a counselor at your career development office for other ideas and resources.

While abroad...

- Maintain a “contacts” notebook of every interesting professional you meet. Don’t forget to get an email address.
- Contact alumni. Meet them at their place of business or socially. If you are in a city with a Brown Club, try to attend their events.
- Interested in teaching English in the future? Look for schools that teach English. Go check them out. What qualifications do the teachers have?
- If in a homestay, talk often with adults in the family about the local economy. Take every opportunity to meet the family's friends and extended family to network.
- Practice, practice, practice the local language, if it is not English. Speak with locals in all walks of life. Read newspapers and magazines to learn about opportunities.
- When you encounter other Americans, of any age, living in your city, introduce yourself. Make note of where they are employed, and ask for tips that might help you obtain a position.
- Pay attention to the cost of living abroad. Figure out how much money you would need to live there, or other places you might consider.
- Become a student ambassador through BRIO, the Brown International Organization, which is a peer support group for international students.
When you return...

• Make the most of the resources offered by the career center at your home college or university. Scheduling an appointment with a counselor will help to get going. Brown students should check with CareerLAB and the Swearer Center.
• Check out the calendar and other important information on the OIP website.
• If you are thinking about going back to the country where you studied, keep in touch with all the contacts you made. Let them know what you are thinking about for after graduation.
• Talk to the OIP staff about your study abroad experience. We love to hear from returned students!

Volunteer Abroad
