Etienne Balibar
Professor Emeritus of Moral and Political Philosophy at Université de Paris X, Nanterre and Visiting Professor of French and Romance Philology at Columbia University

Althusser’s Dramaturgy and the Critique of Ideology

A political philosopher and Marxist theorist whose scholarship examines civility and violence, borders and representations of the stranger, the subject, the citizen, and cosmopolitics. Professor Balibar is the author of many books, including Reading Capital (with Louis Althusser et al.); The Philosophy of Marx; Spinoza and Politics; Masses, Classes, Ideas; and We, the People of Europe? Reflections on Transnational Citizenship.

Monday, October 7, 2013
5:30 pm
Granoff Center
154 Angell Street
Studio 1, S410
Reception to follow, Granoff Center, Lower Lobby

Sponsored by the departments of Modern Culture and Media and English and the Malcolm S. Forbes Center for Culture and Media Studies.