DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

COURSE PROSPECTUS FOR 2011-12 (AS OF 01/13/12)

The Department of English offers a wide variety of courses appropriate for concentrators as well as for others who wish to write, read, and critically assess literatures. Seminars and special topics offerings intensely explore literary-historical fields through the study of theory and literary forms and often intersect with literatures in other fields.

Primarily for Undergraduate Students

ENGL0110  CRITICAL READING AND WRITING I: THE ACADEMIC ESSAY
An introduction to university-level writing. Students produce and revise multiple drafts of essays, practice essential skills of paragraph organization, and develop techniques of critical analysis and research. Readings from a range of texts in literature, the media, and academic disciplines. Assignments move from personal response papers to formal academic essays. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Fall sections 5, 6, 7, and 10 are reserved for first-year students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Fall  ENGL0110 S01 (CRN11414)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Lawrence Stanley
“Re-visioning Writing” encourages a meditative and reflective approach to language. It will familiarize you with the processes of close and intertextual reading, with different modes of analytical thought, and with the practice of translating reading and thinking into writing. We will carefully examine essays that cover a range of issues from ideas about reading and writing to culture and identity; writing assignments, which stress revision, will explore the articulation of your perceptions and thoughts with the rigor and discipline necessary to university studies. This section is reserved for first-year students. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S02 (CRN11464)
H Hour (TTh 9:00-10:20am)
Carol DeBoer-Langworthy
This section focuses on decoding academic discourse and reproducing it effectively. We will generate, draft and revise three or four academic essays with topics chosen by students from several disciplines. Readings will incorporate a broad range of political and social issues. In addition to class meetings, students attend selected public lectures on campus and do short response writings online to weigh the arguments and analysis used in various intellectual venues. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S03 (CRN11465)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Carol DeBoer-Langworthy
See description for Section 02, above.
ENGL0110 S04 (CRN11466)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Lisa Egan
As students in this section think about, produce, and evaluate writing and connect writing to reading and critical thinking, they will be introduced to and employ a few simple concepts: the so what question, pattern-finding and point-making, and sentence focus. In addition, as students choose from a variety of challenging readings for the bases of three formal writing assignments, they will select the writing option from the academic discipline that best suits their interests and academic goals. Furthermore, as they complete informal writings to prepare for the formal ones, students will be supported in their efforts by extensive written instructor feedback and regularly scheduled student conferences. Effort will be made to address individual writing needs in addition to course objectives. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S05 (section reserved for first-year students) (CRN11467)
F Hour (MWF 1-1:50pm)
Kate Schapira
This is a class designed to stretch our powers of thinking, writing, reading and speaking academically. What makes a text, a conversation or a mindset “academic”? Among other things, a particular kind of attention, focus and consideration to language as well as to topics and ideas. Through class discussion, reading, writing and especially revising, we’ll become better academic communicators—better at understanding what others say and write, and better at saying and writing what we mean. We'll read texts by Cornell West, Marjane Satrapi, Virginia Woolf, Azar Nafisi and Stephen Jay Gould, among others, and create a portfolio of essays with varying lengths, styles, and goals. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S06 (section reserved for first-year students) (CRN11468)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Michael Stewart
The primary goal of this section is to help you develop a personal academic voice. To this end, most of our time will be spent in workshops and private conferences. Our discussions will explore questions of authoritative language and rhetorical strategy, and we will look at research as a creative process as well as an essential element of academic writing. The readings will be a blend of contemporary and modern essays, which will be used not only to develop your talents as a writer, but also to make you a stronger critical reader. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S07 (section reserved for first-year students) (CRN11469)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
Devon Anderson
This section approaches writing as a means of exploring and developing ideas. Through lively discussions, in-class workshops, and conferences, we will explore narrative, descriptive, argumentative, and research essay styles. Through close-readings, we will expand our skills of interpretation and analysis. As students learn to write persuasive arguments and compelling prose, they will also practice planning, drafting, and revising their work. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.
ENGL0110 S08 (CRN11470)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Andrew Naughton
This course aims to improve students’ academic and professional writing. Working on critical skills in reading and writing, including elements of style, syntax, and revision, each student is encouraged to cultivate and apply argumentative thinking. Students will learn to engage texts with a critical apparatus informed by close reading and analytical questioning. In addition to classroom discussion, students will complete response papers and a final research paper. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S09 (CRN11471)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50pm)
Perry Hull
This section is designed to help students hone the critical reading and writing skills necessary for participation in academic discourse. Readings, discussions, and workshops will be aimed at helping students identify different modes of argumentation and rhetoric. We will also discuss issues including responsible research, revision, and style. Assignments will include writing exercises, short essays, and a long research paper. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S10 (section reserved for first-year students) (CRN11472)
C Hour (MWF 10-10:50am)
Sean Keck
This introduction to university-level writing takes artwork as a perspective from which to consider/study/examine the academic essay. Working with questions raised by art—point of view, technique, structure, and tone—we analyze more conventional/traditional critical texts. Students will practice paragraphing, drafting, revision, and grammar to learn how to negotiate assignment requirements with the (artistic) experimentation necessary for writing a successful essay (from Old French essai, meaning trial, attempt, or experiment). Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S11 (CRN11473)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
Swetha Regunathan
In this section, students will approach academic writing as a process of close reading, arguing, and revising through contact with a broad range of essays, fiction, and other media. In so doing, they will produce a portfolio of weekly responses, exercises, and a final research paper. Peer-review workshops and conferences with the instructor will allow students to refine arguments and forge a personal voice. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.
ENGL0110 S14 (CRN17464)
F Hour (MWF 1-1:50pm)
Steven Swarbrick
The goal of this course is to equip students with a clearer understanding of the critical reading and writing practices particular to the academic essay. By canvassing a variety of disciplines and genres ranging from literary fiction to journalism, film, memoir, philosophy, and cultural theory, the course will exercise our understanding of what it means to write well, effectively, and with style. Assignments will include weekly writing exercises, three short essays, and a final research paper. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S15 (CRN17486)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Robert Ward

Spring ENGL0110 S01 (CRN21067)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Jon Readey
This section is designed to help prepare students to write at the university level and for the job world beyond by providing instruction in developing persuasive arguments, organizing texts at the paragraph and sentence levels, controlling a range of prose styles, and conducting critical reading and research. Our classes will feature energetic and interactive discussions, workshops, frequent instructor conferences, and informal and formal written assignments with an emphasis on revision. Our texts will range from academic essays to fiction and popular films, and we will focus on examining and writing about the broad notion of inequality—in areas like class, gender, and race—both within the U.S. and internationally. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0110 S02 (CRN21068)
G Hour (MWF 2-2:50pm)
Jon Readey
See description for Section 01, above.

ENGL0110 S03 (CRN21069)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
James Beaver
This introduction to university-level writing will focus on developing reading and analytical skills to engage a variety of texts, including personal essays and journalistic pieces, as well as more canonical essays. Students will learn how to formulate their own arguments, organize ideas, and engage issues of style while developing their own critical voices. Assignments include frequent entries in a course weblog and three longer papers, including a research essay.
ENGL0110 S04 (CRN26279)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
Robert Ward
In its various forms, the essay allows scholars to put forward ideas and arguments, to shift ways of seeing and understanding, and to contribute to ongoing intellectual debate. This course offers an introduction to the style and purpose of writing and gives you the opportunity to work on three essay forms. You will read and discuss an eclectic range of personal and academic essays and participate in workshops, critical reviews, and symposia. You will develop an understanding of the techniques of scholarly work and acquire academic skills that will enable you to engage successfully with the challenges and opportunities of studying at Brown. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0130 CRITICAL READING AND WRITING II: THE RESEARCH ESSAY
For the confident writer. Offers students who have mastered the fundamentals of the critical essay an opportunity to acquire the skills to write a research essay, including formulation of a research problem, use of primary evidence, and techniques of documentation. Individual section topics are drawn from literature, history, the social sciences, the arts, and the sciences. Writing sample may be required. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Fall
ENGL0130 S01 (CRN11415)
G Hour (MWF 2-2:50pm)
Jon Readey
This course seeks to help students learn how to write the research essay and to develop their skills in reading, writing, and analyzing academic essays. In order to prepare students for writing at the university level and in the job world, the course will focus on constructing viable research topics, conducting research, writing and revising academic prose, and mastering formal style and documentation. Texts will vary from academic essays to fiction and popular films, and students will translate the lessons learned from class readings into writing clearer, more persuasive, and fully researched academic papers. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0130 S02 (CRN11475)
F Hour (MWF 1-1:50pm)
Elizabeth Taylor
“The Thoughtful Generalist” -- To prepare for academic and real world discourse, we will study essays by nationally known writers as exempla of deep research turned into engaging intellectual journey. In practice we will generate, research, plan, draft, and revise several essays, moving from close reading to inter-textual analysis to complex grappling with varied sources to explore a subject, issue, or artist. Writing sample may be required. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0130 S03 (CRN15398)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Lisa Egan
As a practical endeavor, this course will help students incrementally complete a research paper. Students will learn (1) how to narrow a topic and construct an argument around a purpose; (2) how to identify, evaluate, and read scholarly sources; (3) how to structure and sustain extended written d
discussion; and (4) how to correctly adhere to appropriate models for quotes and documentation. Thematically, this course will center on the family as a common subject, using a cross-curricular sampling of readings that establish some general notions about the family, and in particular, about ideologies of the family. Students will have much latitude in choosing specific topics for research and writing but will be encouraged to explore some facet of the family within the discourse of their concentration and to utilize the wealth of academic resources within other departments. Writing sample may be required. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Spring ENGL0130 S02  The Science Research Essay  (CRN21071)

E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)

Carol DeBoer-Langworthy

“The Science Research Essay” -- This course explores how science, as an academic way of thinking and a method, is important in the development of critical thinking and expression of culture. Students will write three research essays on scientific topics, three different ways: as a scientific "paper," as an article for the general public, and as a grant proposal. Differing protocols and modes of expression for each form will be explained and explored. Writing sample may be required. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0130 S03  (CRN27320)

E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)

Robert Ward

This course guides you through the process of writing a research essay in various academic disciplines. We will discuss, practice, and refine a number of key skills, including the formulation of a research question, identifying, using, and documenting appropriate scholarly evidence, as well as planning, revising, and structuring an extended piece of critical work. The class is a collaborative and supportive setting that will also enable you to improve your research writing through regular peer-review, conferences, academic debate, and research symposia. Writing sample may be required. Enrollment limited to 17. Beginning first day of classes, no registration permitted without instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0160  JOURNALISTIC WRITING

An introduction to journalistic writing that focuses on techniques of investigation, reporting, and feature writing. Uses readings, visiting journalists, and field experience to address ethical and cultural debates involving the profession of journalism. Writing assignments range from news coverage of current events to investigative feature articles. Writing sample required. Enrollment limited to 17. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Fall ENGL0160 Sec. 01  News and Feature Writing and Reporting  (CRN11416)

MW 3:00-4:20pm

Tracy Breton

Pulitzer Prize-Winning reporter for Providence-Journal teaches news reporting and writing and feature writing. This course is designed to teach students how to report and write hard news and feature stories for newspapers and to hone students' skills as interviewers and observers of daily life. The first half of the semester will focus on hard news writing, everything from police, government and court reporting to news analysis. The second half of the semester will be devoted to feature writing -- profiles and the art of narrative story-telling. There will be a particular emphasis on one genre, the nonfiction short story.
Students will learn how to select a topic, structure and organize material, use description effectively and rid their writing of clutter. Topics covered will include the art of the interview; writing about people and places--the twin pillars on which most nonfiction is built; developing a voice and presenting a point of view while avoiding bias. Journalistic ethics will be discussed. Some of the classes will be held off campus where students will be gathering information for written assignments. There will be writing assignments every class and individual critiques. Writing sample required. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0160 Sec. 02 News and Feature Writing and Reporting (CRN11476)
H Hour (TTh 9:10-10:20am)
Tracy Breton
See description for Section 01, above.

ENGL0160 Sec. 01 Journalistic Writing (CRN21072)
AB Hour (MW 8:30-9:50am)
Tom Mooney
This course teaches students how to report and write hard news and feature stories for newspapers. Students learn to gather and organize material, develop interviewing techniques, and hone their writing skills. Students must meet deadlines; writing drills assigned virtually every class. The first half of the semester focuses on "hard" news: accidents, crime, government, and courts. Second half is devoted to writing features, profiles, and the art of narrative story telling. Writing sample required. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0180 INTRODUCTION TO CREATIVE NONFICTION
Designed to familiarize students with the techniques and narrative structures of creative nonfiction. Reading and writing will focus on personal essays, memoir, science writing, travel writing, and other related subgenres. May serve as preparation for ENGL1180. Enrollment limited to 17. Writing sample may be required. S/NC.

Fall  ENGL0180 S01 (CRN11417)
H Hour (TTh 9:10-10:20am)
Ed Hardy
This workshop will explore the range of narrative possibilities available under the umbrella term "creative nonfiction." We'll be looking at questions of structure and technique in a number of subgenres including: the personal essay, literary journalism, travel writing, science writing and memoir. Student work will be discussed in both workshops and conferences. At the semester's end students will turn in a portfolio with several polished shorter pieces and one longer essay. May serve as preparation for ENGL1180. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Writing sample may be required. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0180 S02 (CRN11477)
B Hour (MWF 9:50am)
Kate Schapira
How can nonfiction also be creative? In this course, we'll look at writing that's inventive rather than invented, examining and imitating the tactics writers use and the risks they take to convey what happened, what's happening, and what they hope or fear will happen. Writing and rewriting (reportage, cultural critique, literary response, opinion, memoir) will form a key part of the course, and students will rework a number of pieces for a final portfolio. Authors considered include, but are not limited to, Antjie
Krog, Richard Feynman, M.F.K. Fisher, James Thurber, Naomi Klein, John Lahr. May serve as preparation for EL0118. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Writing sample may be required. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0180 S03 (CRN11478)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
Michael Stewart
In this section we will explore several genres of creative nonfiction, including the lyric essay, historical narrative, science narrative and memoir. We will look closely at several readings culled from modern and contemporary sources and then engage in a series of workshops, writing drills and one-on-one conferences. The focus of the class will be on further developing your unique voice and range as well as augmenting your talents as a critical reader. May serve as preparation for ENGL1180. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Writing sample may be required. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Spring ENGL0180 S01 (CRN21073)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Lisa Egan
This section offers students an opportunity to practice fundamentals of creative nonfiction. Assignments enable students to see themselves as teachers, whose writings not only inform but also provoke their readers to see beyond surface subjects. For material, students will look outside themselves, to the academic and the real world, learn to choose compelling topics, and then research those topics in engaging ways. Students will not follow any particular form (such as the personal narrative or the lyric essay), but will instead learn to match the form to the subject matter, completing two long pieces and two "shorts," borrowing techniques from exposition and journalism but also fiction and poetry. Frequent, small peer workshops. Whole-class "textbook" anthology for final project. May serve as preparation for EL0118. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. Writing sample may be required. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL0200  SEMINARS IN WRITING, LITERATURES, AND CULTURES
Offers students a focused experience with reading and writing on a literary or cultural topic. Requires 18-20 pages of finished critical prose dealing with the literary, cultural, and theoretical problems raised. Course goal is to improve students’ ability to perform close reading and textual analysis. Enrollment limited to 17.

Fall  ENGL0201B Rebels with a Cause: The Figure of the Rebel from Marlowe to Milton (CRN16820)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
James Beaver
Examines representations of the rebel in early modern literature as a figure who is fundamental to definitions of social order. To what extent is the rebel integral to the social, political, and sexual structures s/he challenges? What do God and Satan, king and traitor, Puritan and sodomite have in common? Readings include Marlowe, Kyd, Shakespeare, Middleton, Webster, Marvell, Hobbes, and Milton. Enrollment limited to 17. WRIT

Spring  ENGL0201C Birds, Beasts, and Bots: American Literature between the Wild and the Wired (CRN26570)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Sean Keck
19th- and 20th-century American writers have often contemplated the relation of human beings to nature and machinery. This course examines the diverse ways American writers of this period have represented human interactions with natural elements (animals, wilderness) and artificial components (robots, factories, cities). We will focus especially on the question of whether human life is characterized in these texts as increasingly natural or programmed. Readings include works by Thoreau, Dickinson, Crane, London, Sinclair, Stevens, Eliot, Bradbury, Dick, and Dillard. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. WRIT

ENGL0201D Feeling Queerly (CRN26571)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Devon Anderson
Explores “queerness” in all of its connotations in American and European literature from the late nineteenth to the mid-twentieth century. Analyzes the ways that a range of embodied feelings and emotional states (like shame, disgust, envy, embarrassment, and passivity) shapes formal aspects of literary works and effectively hinders speech, action, and self-expression. Authors include Melville, Woolf, Stein, Beckett, Baldwin, Crane, Genet. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. WRIT

ENGL0201E World Wide: Globalization from Shakespeare to Rushdie (CRN26572)
F Hour (MWF 1-1:50pm)
Swetha Regunathan
Explores the idea of globalization and its resonances with 17th and 18th century conceptions of a global network. How did early modern authors treat the ideas of cosmopolitanism, competing loyalties between home and the world, conflicts between self and other? How do contemporary authors take up or respond to these issues? Readings include Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Swift, Kant, Amitav Ghosh, and Salman Rushdie. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. WRIT

ENGL0201F Ravishing verse: the lyric and spiritual crisis (CRN26573)
G Hour (MWF 2-2:50pm)
Andrew Naughton
This seminar explores the tension between the language of the spiritual and the language of the sensual in lyric poetry. How does a poet’s inner struggle over questions of belief engage the individual with the larger community; how does this struggle confront the lyric tradition? Poetry and prose readings will include Spenser, Donne, Herbert, Marvell, Milton, Hopkins, Mahon, and Longley. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. WRIT

ENGL0201G Killing them Softly: Satire and Stereotype in African-American Literature (CRN26574)

J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)

Perry Hull

Examines the possibilities and limitations of satire within the field of 20th-century African-American literature. We will consider the ways in which the satirical form is deployed by writers seeking to examine questions of authenticity, community, and stereotypical representation. Authors include Schuyler, Ellison, Killens, Reed, Beatty, and Everett. Screenings of works by Spike Lee and Dave Chappelle. Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. DVSP WRIT

ENGL0201H Green Shakespeare: Literature, Ecology, and the Nonhuman (CRN27434)

F Hour (MWF 1-1:50 pm)

Steven Swarbrick

How did Renaissance writers conceive of nature, human autonomy, and the nonhuman agencies of the environment? What ecological futures might they invite us to imagine? This course seeks to address these and other questions by exploring the strange and paradoxical writings of some of English literature’s earliest ecological thinkers. Readings will include a variety of materials from plays (The Tempest, Titus Andronicus, The Winter’s Tale) to poetry (Donne, Milton, Marvell), history, and theory (eco-criticism, animal studies, science studies). Enrollment limited to 17 undergraduate students. WRIT

ENGL0210 INTRODUCTORY GENERAL TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES

These introductory general topics courses are designed to give students a coherent sense of the literary history and the major critical developments during a substantial portion of the period covered by the department’s Area I research field: Medieval and Early Modern Literatures and Cultures. English concentrators are required to take at least one of these courses to apply toward the Area I English concentration requirements. Different sections may be taken for credit. Enrollment limited to 30.

Fall

ENGL0210H New Selves, New Worlds (CRN17286)

G Hour (MWF 2-2:50pm)

James Egan

How did pre-modern and early modern writers imagine the self? How were these notions of the self transformed when individuals traveled to unfamiliar places? How do these new selves imagine certain fundamental questions, such as the power one has to control one’s emotions, social environment, and ultimate fate. Authors may include Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Milton. Enrollment limited to 30.

Spring

ENGL0210F Beowulf to Aphra Behn: The Earliest British Literatures (CRN26486) (MDVL0210F)

C Hour (MWF 10-10:50am)

Elizabeth Bryan

Major texts and a few surprises from literatures composed in Old English, Old Irish, Anglo-Norman, Middle English, and Early Modern English. We will read texts in their historical and cultural contexts. Texts include anonymously authored narratives like Beowulf and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, selected Canterbury Tales by Chaucer, and texts by Sir Thomas Malory, Spenser, Shakespeare, and Aphra Behn. Not open to seniors.
ENGL0250  INTRODUCTORY SEMINARS IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES
First-year seminars in Medieval and Early Modern Literatures and Cultures. Limited to 20 first-year students.

Fall  ENGL0250E  The Medieval King Arthur (CRN16756) (MDVL0250E)
      H Hour (TTh 9:00-10:20am)
      Elizabeth Bryan
Where did King Arthur come from? We will read the earliest Celtic, Anglo-Norman, and Middle English narratives of King Arthur and his companions, to examine Arthur’s varying personas of warrior, king, lover, thief. Attention to the literary qualities of the Arthurian texts, as we explore the evolution of the Round Table, the Holy Grail, Lancelot and Guinevere, and Merlin. Enrollment limited to 20 first-year students. FYS.

ENGL0250G  The Green Renaissance (CRN16821) (REMS0250G)
      G Hour (MWF 2:00-2:50pm)
      Jean Feerick
Modern ecological crises suggest that nature is a powerful agent, but that such views were prevalent in the renaissance, when empirical science was transforming nature into an object, needs investigation. How did renaissance poets and dramatists figure their own relationship to the natural world? We will seek answers by reading Shakespeare, Donne, Milton, and Marvel, among other writers. Enrollment limited to 20 first-year students. FYS

ENGL0400  INTRODUCTORY SPECIAL TOPICS IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Fall  ENGL0400A S01  Introduction to Shakespeare (CRN11418) (REMS0400A)
      D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am) (Lecture)
      Jean Feerick
This course will explore issues of concern to Shakespeare’s audiences from his time to ours--love, war, race, sex, good and evil--through a representative selection of plays. Lectures will discuss historical contexts, theatrical conditions, and critical strategies. Designed for students beginning college-level study of Shakespeare. Two lectures and one discussion meeting weekly. Students should register for ENGL0400A S01 and will be assigned to conference sections by the instructor during the first week of class. LILE.

ENGL0410  INTRODUCTORY GENERAL TOPICS IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES
These introductory general topics courses are designed to give students a coherent sense of the literary history and the major critical developments during a substantial portion of the period covered by the department’s Area II research field: Enlightenment and the Rise of National Literatures and Cultures. English concentrators are required to take at least one of these courses to apply toward the Area II English concentration requirements. Different sections may be taken for credit. Spring ENGL0610E Postcolonial Literature (CRN 26488)
I Hour (TTh 10:30-11:50am)
Olakunle George

Examines fiction, drama, poetry, travel writing, and cultural theory by contemporary writers from former colonies of the British Empire. We study works by Anglophone African, Caribbean, and South Asian writers. Issues include: nationalism and globalization; cultural identity and diaspora; individual interiority and collective aspirations; literary form and the very idea of "postcolonial" literature. Authors include: J. M. Coetzee, Amitav Ghosh, V. S. Naipaul, Michael Ondaatje, Caryl Phillips, Derek Walcott, Zoë Wicomb.

ENGL0610F Introduction to Modernism: Past, Future, Exile, Home (CRN 26489) (COLT0811A)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Ravit Reichman
An introduction to European Modernism with an emphasis on British literature. We will address ideas of personal and national history through literary and aesthetic innovations of the first half of the twentieth century, as well as the relationship—literary, cultural, historical and psychological—between constructions of home and abroad. Texts include James, Conrad, Forster, Joyce, Proust, Woolf, Faulkner, Waugh, and Freud, as well as films by Sergei Eisenstein and Fritz Lang. Students will be assigned to conference sections by the instructor during the first week of class.

ENGL0610J Contemporary British Fiction (CRN 26493)
I Hour (TTh 10:30-11:50am)
Timothy Bewes
This course is an introduction to the study of 20th century literature in English. We consider central terms of and approaches to literary criticism by reading some of the most important British writers of the last fifty years. We will also take into account theories of culture, ideology and nationhood, and attempt to bring into focus a Britain defined as much by its ways of looking as by historical and geopolitical situation. Readings include Kingsley Amis, Greene, McEwan, Zadie Smith, Spark, Kelman, Banville, Naipaul and Sebald.

ENGL0650 INTRODUCTORY SEMINARS IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES
First-year seminars in Modern and Contemporary Literatures and Cultures. Enrollment limited to 20 first-year students.

Fall

ENGL0650H Realism and Modernism (CRN 11419)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Paul Armstrong
The novel as a genre has been closely identified with the act of representation. What it means to represent “reality,” however, has varied widely. This seminar will explore how the representation of reality changes as modern fiction questions the assumptions about knowing, language, and society that defined the great tradition of realism. English and American novels will be the primary focus of our attention, but influential French, German, and Russian works will be studied as well. Limited to 20 first-year students. Banner registration after classes begin requires instructor approval. FYS LILE

ENGL0650M Believers, Agnostics, and Atheists in Contemporary Fiction

This is a first-year seminar offered in Judaic Studies. Interested students must register for JUDS 0050A.

Spring

ENGL0650K Roaring Twenties (CRN 26494)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Tamar Katz
The 1920s helped solidify much of what we consider modern in 20th-century U.S. culture. This course reads literature of the decade in the context of a broader culture, including film and advertising, to think about the period's important topics: the rise of mass culture and public relations, changes in women's position, consumerism, nativism and race relations. Writers include Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Larsen, Toomer, Parker. Enrollment limited to 20 first-year students. FYS

ENGL0650N Arms and the Man (CRN) (CRN27327)
Q Hour (Thurs. 4-6:20 pm)
Richard Rambuss
“Mother Green and her killing machine!” So enthuses a grunt in Full Metal Jacket about the Marine Corps. This seminar explores the romance of man and machine: the individual man’s body as a machine and group relations with each man as a cog in a larger body/machine. We’ll also consider other sites—including the gym—infiltrated, at least figuratively, by militarism. Texts: Crane, The Red Badge; Herr, Dispatches; Swofford, Jarhead; Paul Fussell, The Great War and Modern Memory; Samuel Fussell, Muscle. Films: Full Metal Jacket; The Hurt Locker; Gi Jane; Three Kings; Pumping Iron. Enrollment limited to 20 first-year students.

ENGL0800 INTRODUCTORY SPECIAL TOPICS IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Spring ENGL0800I Global South Asia (CRN27064)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Madhumita Lahiri
This course provides an introduction to contemporary fiction by South Asia and its diaspora. We will read novels written in North America, the Caribbean, Australia, Africa, the United Kingdom, and of course South Asia, paying particular attention to issues of identity, ethnicity, and transnational circulation. Authors include Adiga, Hanif, Lahiri, Meeran, Mistry, Naipaul, Roy, Rushdie, Selvadurai, and Sinha. DVSP

ENGL0800J Introduction to Asian American Literature (CRN27041)
L Hour (TTh 6:30-7:50pm)
Daniel Kim
This course is intended to familiarize students with key issues that have shaped the study of Asian American writings and to provide a sense of the historical conditions out of which those works have emerged. As a literature course, it will focus on textual analysis—on how particular texts give representational shape to the social, historical and psychological experiences they depict. Readings consists primarily of works that have a canonical status within Asian American literary studies but also include newer works that suggest new directions in the field. It also strives to provide some coverage of the major ethnic groups. DVSP

ENGL0910A How to Read a Poem (CRN26495)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Melinda Rabb
It is difficult/To get the news from poems/Yet men die miserably every day/For lack/Of what is found there. These lines from William Carlos Williams begin to articulate the purpose of this course. The human species for thousands of years has found ways to intensify and order experience through the language of poetry. The ability to read this kind of language well is an enduring life skill. Designed for non-concentrators and English concentrators, the course addresses both conceptual and practical issues of understanding poetry. Readings draw on a wide range of British and American writers, including Wyatt, Shakespeare, Donne, Blake, Keats, Dickinson, Cummings, Frost, Bishop, and Heaney. LILE

ENGL0910F Literature, Trauma, and War (CRN26576) (COLT0811K)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Marc Redfield
This course surveys many genres and periods in order to consider and think about two traditional kinds of literary responses to war—glorifying it, and representing its horrors. We’ll examine texts by Homer, Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, Byron, Whitman, Hardy, Crane, Freud, Levi, Pynchon, and Sebald, among others; we may also screen one or two films. Limited to undergraduates. Students will be assigned to conference sections by the instructor during the first week of class.

ENGL1140 CRITICAL READING AND WRITING III: TOPICS IN LITERARY AND CULTURAL CRITICISM
For advanced writers. Situates rhetorical theory and practice in contexts of cutting-edge literary, cultural, and interdisciplinary criticism, public discourse, and public intellectual debate. Individual sections explore one or more of the following subgenres: rhetorical criticism, hybrid personal-critical essays, case studies, legal argument and advocacy, documentary, satire, commentaries, and review essays. A writing sample will be administered on the first day of class. Class list will be reduced to 12 after writing samples are reviewed. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

Spring
ENGL1140A The Literary Scholar (CRN21020)
F Hour (MWF 1-1:50pm)
Lawrence Stanley
Why does literature need critical study? The question might seem arcane; generally we read literature because we enjoy it; yet when we study literature, the pleasures of reading (and writing) fall into the background. To close this gap, we will examine the histories of literary criticism (Wimsatt, Brooks, et alii), literary theory (Saussure, Foucault, Derrida, et alii), and English literature (from Beowulf to Philip Larkin); we will look at reader response theory, stylistics, literary linguistics, rhetorical theory, and philology. Writing in this seminar will range from reforming conventional literary critical discourse to experimenting with nontraditional forms. Prerequisite: ENGL 0130, 0160, or 0180. Class list will be reduced to 12 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1140B The Public Intellectual (CRN21021)
N Hour (Wed 3-5:20pm)
Catherine Imbriglio
This course offers advanced writers an opportunity to practice sophisticated, engaged critical writing in academic, personal, and civic modes. Emphasis will be on writing "public" essays (general audience essays that do intellectual work or academic essays that address public topics), ideally in fluid, "hybrid," audience-appropriate forms. Areas of investigation will include (but are not limited to) the review essay, the cultural analysis essay, literary documentary, and the extended persuasive/analytic essay. It will include some brief "touchstone" investigations into rhetorical theory, with the aim of helping to broaden our concepts of audience, analyze the constitutive and imaginative effects of language, increase the real-world effectiveness of our own language practices, and situate our writing within current political, cultural, aesthetic and intellectual debates. Students must have sophomore standing or higher in order to be admitted to the class. A writing sample will be administered on the first day of class. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, or a 1000-level nonfiction writing course. Class list will be reduced to 12 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1160 SPECIAL TOPICS IN JOURNALISM
For advanced writers. Class lists will be reduced after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Enrollment limited to 12 or 17, depending on section. S/NC.

ENGL1160D The Common Critic (CRN11421)
Q Hour (Th 4-6:20pm)
Richard Eder
For the advanced writer. Aimed at the cultivated consumer of books, magazines and newspapers-- what has traditionally been called the common reader. Students will attend films, plays, art shows, concerts or dance performances and write weekly reviews based on these experiences. Readings include Orwell, Woolf, Shaw, Kael, Tynan, Clive James, Zbigniew Herbert, and current reviews. Writing sample submitted at first class; also a previous sample, if possible, submitted at the same time. Class list will be reduced to 12 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1160A Advanced Feature Writing (CRN21022)
P Hour (T 4-6:20pm)
Tracy Breton
For the advanced writer. Nothing provides people with more pleasure than a “good read.” This journalism seminar helps students develop the skills to spin feature stories that newspaper and magazine readers will stay with from beginning to end, both for print and on-line publications. Students will spend substantial time off-campus conducting in-depth interviews and sharpening their investigative reporting skills. The art of narrative storytelling will be emphasized. Prerequisite: ENGL0160 or published clips submitted before the first week of classes. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1160E Advanced Journalism: Investigative and Online Reporting (CRN27065)
Mon. 5:30-7:50 pm
David Rohde
The goal of this class is to rigorously test and improve the reporting and nonfiction writing abilities of students seriously considering a career in journalism. By reading award-winning articles; reporting and writing five nonfiction pieces on campus or in Providence; and rigorously critiquing each other’s writing, students will gain a sense of the promise and perils of journalism. Prerequisite: ENGL0160. S/NC.

ENGL1180  SPECIAL TOPICS IN CREATIVE NONFICTION

For the advanced writer. A writing sample will be administered on the first day of class. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, or 1190. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1180J  Tales of the Real World  (CRN16764)
O Hour (Fri 3-5:20pm)
Elizabeth Taylor
For the advanced writer, this section offers a chance to practice the pleasures and challenges of nonfiction analysis and story-telling in the forms of literary journalism, historical narrative, and personal essay or memoir. Inspirations will include Truman Capote, Sebastian Junger, Jamaica Kinkaid, and Maxine Hong Kingston. Intensive practice in researching, interviewing, redrafting, and editing. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: EL 13, 16, 18, 114, 116, 118, or 119 (ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190). Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. S/NC.

ENGL1180K  The Art of Literary Nonfiction  (CRN11422)
C Hour (MWF 10-10:50am)
Catherine Imbriglio
For the advanced writer. Based on Roland Barthes' notion of the fragment, this workshop features an incremental, literary approach to writing nonfiction, in both traditional and experimental formats. In response to daily assignments, students will produce numerous short pieces and three extended "essays," to be gathered into a chapbook at the end of the course. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, or any 1000-level nonfiction writing course. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1180P  Further Adventures in Creative Nonfiction  (CRN14600)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Ed Hardy
A workshop course for students who have taken EL 18 or the equivalent and are looking for further explorations of voice and form. Work can include personal essays, literary journalism and travel writing. Readings from Ian Frazier, Joan Didion, David Sedaris, John McPhee and others. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, or any 1000-level nonfiction writing course. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1180R  Travel Writing: Personal and Cultural Narratives  (CRN15435)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Jon Readey
For the advanced writer. Helps students build skills in the growing genre of travel writing, including techniques for reading, observing, interviewing, composing, and revising travel pieces. Students will read the best contemporary writing about national and international travel in order to develop their own writing in areas like narrative, setting, characters, and voice. The course will feature interactive discussions, instructor conferences, and workshops. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, or any 1000-level nonfiction writing course. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. S/NC.

Spring ENGL1180E Lifewriting (CRN26496)
P Hour (Tues 4-6:20)
Carol DeBoer-Langworthy
Features theoretical and practical study of lifewriting's various forms--memoir, diary, essay, and autobiography--and the crafting of personal narrative. Students read books, view films, and keep an electronic diary and paper notebook. Requirements include a personal critical essay and autobiography. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: EL 13, 16, 18, 114, 116, 118, or 119 (ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190). Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. S/NC.

ENGL1180G Lyricism and Lucidity (CRN21023)
I Hour (TTh 10:30-11:50am)
Catherine Imbriglio
This course will explore two subsets of the essay that blur or cross boundary lines – the hybrid “lyric” essay and the hybrid “image/text” essay, the latter including but not limited to the “photographic” essay and the graphic nonfiction essay. With respect to the lyric essay (which draws many of its defining inspirations from poetry rather than from traditional narrative techniques), special emphasis will be given to literary craft and style; with respect to the “image/text” essay, some attention will be given to picture theory, with the goal of mining the creative tensions between image and text. With respect to both, we will investigate – collapse and play with – opposing assumptions of “artfulness” and clarity that the course title suggests. The class is not open to first year students. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, or any 1000-level nonfiction writing course. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1180Q Narrating History (CRN26497)
O Hour (Fri 3-5:20pm)
Elizabeth Taylor
For the advanced writer: the protocols of historical narrative and essay for a general audience. Using the archives of Brown, the Rhode Island Historical Society, and the student's family (if feasible), each writer will research primary and secondary sources, use interviews and oral histories, to help shape three engaging, instructive true stories of the past. Intensive library work, revisions, and peer editing. Writing sample required. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.
ENGL1190 SPECIAL TOPICS IN NONFICTION WRITING
For the advanced writer. A writing sample will be administered on the first day of class. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed. Prerequisite for most sections: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1190M S02 The Theory and Practice of Writing: Writing Fellows Program (CRN15437)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Douglas Brown
For students accepted as Writing Fellows, this course offers the study of literary essays and composition theory to help develop their own writing with a critical awareness of the elements of an essay. Students will write essays throughout the semester and will confer with each other for every paper, thereby gaining experience in peer tutoring and becoming better writers through the help of an informed peer. They will also respond to the writing of a cohort of students in another designated Writing Fellows class. Enrollment is restricted to undergraduates who have been accepted into the Writing Fellows Program in the preceding July. Instructor's permission required. S/NC.

ENGL1190A "The Arrangement of Words": Liberating Fiction(s) (CRN26498)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
Lawrence Stanley
We read fiction because we enjoy stories. As critical or astute readers, we are often drawn into something more than the story itself, into the way it is told, into the inflections and constructions of language. Concentrating on American fiction writers 1918-1945 (Hemingway, Faulkner, Welty, O'Connor, others), we examine their fiction and non-fictional prose to see what they do and how and why. Writing will range from critical exposition to annotated fictional experiments. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. S/NC.

ENGL1190L Creative Nonfiction: Practice and Criticism (CRN26499)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Elizabeth Taylor
For advanced writers. What is Creative Nonfiction? Writers have flocked to it; scholars have questioned it. Does it harm the truth? Is it narrative with too much “I” and too little “Eye”? What makes it significant? To help us explore persistent questions about form, point of view, method, and ethics, readings will include historical examples, recent practitioners, editors, and critics. Intensive reading responses, research, drafting, and revision. Two critical essays; one piece of creative nonfiction. Prerequisite: ENGL0130, 0160, 0180, 1140, 1160, 1180, or 1190. Class list will be reduced to 17 after writing samples are reviewed during the first week of classes. Preference will be given to English concentrators. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. S/NC.

ENGL1200 INDEPENDENT STUDY IN NONFICTION WRITING
Fall and Spring. Tutorial instruction oriented toward some work in progress by the student. May be repeated once for credit. Requires submission of a written proposal to a faculty supervisor. Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. Instructor’s permission required.

ENGL1210  HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

Fall  ENGL1210 (CRN14853)
C Hour (MWF 10-10:50am)
Geoffrey Russom
Provides an introduction to the study of the English language from a historical, linguistic, and philological perspective, and an overview of the study of the "Englishes" that populate our globe. While providing students with the ability to identify and explain language change through historical periods, also examines language as a social and political phenomenon. Instructor permission required.

Texts in Middle English by Geoffrey Chaucer including the romance Troilus and Criseyde; dream vision poems Book of the Duchess, House of Fame, and Parliament of Fowls; Chaucer's translation of Boethius's Consolation of Philosophy; his shorter poems; and two Canterbury Tales. Prior knowledge of Middle English not required. Not open to first-year students.

ENGL1311C Milton (CRN16825)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Marc Redfield
A close examination of the poetry and prose of John Milton, from the early lyrics to the polemical prose writings of the 1640s and 50s, to the masterpieces Paradise Lost, Paradise Regained, and Samson Agonistes.

Spring  ENGL1310H The Origins of American Literature (CRN26501)
B Hour (MWF 9-9:50am)
James Egan
Where does American literature begin? Can it be said to have a single point of origin? Can writings by people who did not consider themselves American be the source of our national literary tradition? Does such a tradition even exist and, if so, what are its main characteristics? Authors may include Columbus, de Vaca, Shakespeare, Bradstreet, and Native American tales.

ENGL1311D Shakespeare (COLT1410P, CRN25832)

Fall  ENGL1360K Shakespeare and Company (CRN16766)
       H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
       Coppelia Kahn
Shakespeare belonged to a community of actors and playwrights who competed for audiences in a fledgling entertainment industry. How do his plays compare to those of Marlowe or Jonson, Middleton or Webster? Reading Shakespeare in tandem with his contemporaries, we will consider the genres, sources, styles and conventions they shared, the issues that concerned them, and their differing artistic perspectives. Prerequisite ENGL0400A or equivalent. LILE WRIT

ENGL1360P Shakespearean Tragedy (CRN16767)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Coppélia Kahn
We will read in depth early, middle and late tragedies by Shakespeare, attending to the genre as understood in the Renaissance and as Shakespeare developed it, along with critical readings that explore tragic form. Oral presentations, short papers, and a final research paper. Prerequisite: ENGL0400A or equivalent. Enrollment limited to 20 juniors and seniors. LILE WRIT

Spring  ENGL1360U Europe in the Vernacular (CRN26579) (MDVL1360U)
       M Hour (Mon 3-5:20pm)
       Elizabeth Bryan
Why did a few early medieval European authors write not in Latin or Arabic but in vernacular languages like Castilian, Early Middle English, Old Icelandic, or Old French? We will read primary texts by Laȝamon, Alfonso X, Dante, troubadours and anonymous others, and assess previous claims about the “rise of the individual” and various proto-nationalisms as we rewrite the story of how, why, and for whom multilingual vernacular writings came to be. Readings in modern English supplemented by medieval languages.

ENGL1400  UNDERGRADUATE INDEPENDENT STUDY IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES

ENGL1510  SPECIAL TOPICS IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall  ENGL1510A By a Lady: Jane Austen and Her Predecessors (CRN16768)
       J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
       Melinda Rabb
Before turning to an in-depth consideration of Austen’s major work, this course takes a revisionary view of the rise of the novel by studying fiction by women writers from Aphra Behn to Mary Wollstonecraft. Readings include Haywood's Love in Excess, Inchbald's A Simple Story, Burney's Evelina, and, of course, Austen's Northanger Abbey, Pride and Prejudice, Emma, Mansfield Park, and Persuasion.
Spring  ENGL1511M Victorian Self and Society (CRN26581)
I Hour (TTh 10:30-11:50am)
Vanessa Ryan
This multi-genre course studies literature and culture of the Victorian period, looking at the changing ideas of society and the individual's place within that larger community in an age of empire, industrialization, urbanization, class conflict, and religious crisis. Topics include conceptions of the role of art and culture in society, the railway mania of the 1840s, women’s suffrage and the condition of women, and the Great Exhibition of 1851. Readings (essays, poems, stories, plays, and novels) by Carlyle, Charlotte Brontë, Ruskin, Robert Browning, Dickens, Tennyson, Christina Rossetti, George Eliot, and Lewis Carroll.

ENGL1560  SEMINARS IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall  ENGL1561D Writing and the Ruins of Empire (CRN16770)
M Hour (M 3-5:20pm)
William Keach
An exploration of literary representations of “empire” and “imperialism” from the 18th century to the present. Readings in Gibbon’s Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Volney’s Ruins of Empire, and a wide range of 19th- and 20th-century texts. Some consideration of theories of imperialism and of visual representations of cultures of empire. Prior coursework in 18th- and 19th-century literature advised. Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1561H The Brain and the Book: Thinking in the Novel (CRN16771) (SCSO1561H)
M Hour (M 3-5:20pm)
Vanessa Ryan
Considers mostly nineteenth-century novels in light of the theories of cognition, both nineteenth-century and contemporary. This course proposes to study how some of the foundational questions of literary study—the nature of language, the location of meaning, the experience of reading, the power of metaphor, and the sources of creative thought—can also be studied from the perspective of mental science. Authors may include Charles Dickens, Wilkie Collins, George Eliot, Henry James. Limited to juniors and seniors only. Others by permission of the instructor if space allows. Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1561M American Literature and the Corporation (CRN16826)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Deak Nabers
A study of the development of the American novel from the Civil War to the present in light of the emergence of the corporation as the principal unit of economic enterprise in the United States. We will survey corporate theory from Lippmann to Collins, and use it to frame the novel’s development from realism through modernism into postmodernism. Corporate theorists to be considered: Lippmann, Dewey, Berle, Drucker, Mayo, Demming, Friedman, Coase. Novelists to be considered: Twain, Dreiser, Wharton, Stein, Faulkner, Steinbeck, Wright, McCullers, Reed, Gaddis, Morrison. Enrollment limited to 20.

Spring  ENGL1560V Lives of a Text (CRN26507)
G Hour (MW 2-2:50pm)
James Egan
Books are composed not merely of concepts, for they are material objects whose forms, functions, and value can vary widely. We will make extensive use of rare editions at the John Hay Library to help us explore not only the literary content of works but also their production and dissemination in various formats and for various audiences. Authors include Shakespeare, Irving, Poe. Enrollment limited to 15.

ENGL1561E The Western (CRN26508)

M Hour (Mon 3-5:20pm)

Deak Nabers

An examination of the formula Western in American fiction, art, and cinema, with a view toward situating the genre within urban middle-class culture in the late 19th- and 20th-century United States. Authors to be considered include Twain, Harte, Crane, Austin, Cather, Doctorow, Reed, Leonard, and L’Amour. Films: Destry Rides Again, Stagecoach, Rio Bravo, The Seven Samurai, Fistful of Dollars, Dirty Harry, The Man from Laramie, Paint your Wagon, Act of Violence, among others. Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1561J The Poetics of Confession (CRN26582) (MCM1202A) (COLT1421S)

Q Hour (Th 4-6:20pm)

Jacques Khalip

This course explores the theoretical structures and models of confession in various literary and cinematic sources, with a special emphasis on work from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Authors might include: St. Augustine, Rousseau, De Quincey, Foucault, Wordsworth, Bronte, Wilde.

ENGL1561K Restoration and Eighteenth-Century Drama (CRN26583)

Q Hour (Th 4-6:20pm)

Melinda Rabb

After almost two decades of closure, public theaters re-opened in 1660. This new beginning occasioned new plays, new kinds of performance and production, and new intersections between the stage and society. We will study works by Etherege, Wycherly, Congreve, Dryden, Behn, Gay, Lillo, Sheridan, and others.

ENGL1561L Revolution, War, Poetry: Wordsworth in the 1790s (CRN26584)

N Hour (Wed 3-5:20pm)

Marc Redfield

William Wordsworth’s poetic experiments during the 1790s are often said to have invented modern poetry as the poetry of consciousness; they are also efforts to find language adequate to a time of revolution, war, and modernity. This seminar examines texts by various writers of the revolutionary era, but focuses on Wordsworth’s poetry from the early 1790s to the 1805 Prelude. Open to juniors and seniors concentrating in English, Comp. Lit., or MCM. Graduate students and others require instructor permission. Pre-requisite ENGL0410 or equivalent.

ENGL1600 INDEPENDENT STUDY IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Fall and Spring. Tutorial instruction oriented toward a literary research topic in the Enlightenment and the Rise of National Literatures and Cultures. Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. Instructor’s permission required.
ENGL1710  SPECIAL TOPICS IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Fall  ENGL1710K  Plain Folk: Literature and the Problem of Poverty (CRN16774)
1 Hour (TTh 10:30-11:50am)
Rolland Murray
Explores poverty as a political and aesthetic problem for the American novelist. Examines the ways that writers have imagined the poor as dangerous others, agents of urban decay, bearers of folk culture, and engines of class revolt. Also considers these literary texts in relation to historical debates about economic inequality. Writers may include Crane, Faulkner, Wright, Steinbeck, and Hurston. Open to undergraduates only.

ENGL1710P  The Literature and Culture of Black Power Reconsidered (CRN16775)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Rolland Murray
This course reexamines the Black Power movement as a signal development in American literature and culture. We will read classics from the period with a view toward reassessing the nuances and complexities of their form and politics. At the same time, we will recover less familiar texts that complicate conventional understandings of what defines this movement. Authors include Malcolm X, Huey P. Newton, Angela Davis, Eldridge Cleaver, John Edgar Wideman, Ernest Gaines, and Amiri Baraka. DVSP

Spring  ENGL1710I  Harlem Renaissance: The Politics of Culture  (CRN25173)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Rolland Murray
The Harlem Renaissance was a remarkable flowering of culture in postwar New York as well as a social movement that advanced political agendas for the nation. This course takes up the relationship between literature and politics by exploring such matters as the urbanization of black America, the representation of the black poor, the influence of white patronage, and the rise of primitivism. Writers may include Hughes, Hurston, Larsen, Fisher, Locke, and McKay. DVSP

ENGL1710Y  American Literature and the Cold War (CRN26585)
D Hour (MWF 11-11:50am)
Deak Nabers
A study of American literature in the context of the broad intellectual culture--strategic, ideological, philosophical, aesthetic, and economic--engendered by the conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union from 1945 to 1991. We will assess the role of the bomb, McCarthyism, game theory, the military industrial complex, and strategic doctrines of containment and deterrence in the rise of postmodernism in American literature. Authors to be considered include Bellow, Highsmith, Millar, Ellison, McCarthy, Mailer, Pynchon, Wideman, Coover, Delillo. Students should register for ENGL1710Y S01 and may be assigned to conference sections by the instructor during the first week of class.

ENGL1760  SEMINARS IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Fall  ENGL1760Q  James Joyce and the Modern Novel  (CRN16776)
0 Hour (F 3-5:20pm)
Paul Armstrong
One measure of James Joyce’s achievement as a writer is his influence (as an inspiration, an antagonist, or a competitor) on novelists who came after him. Our primary concern will be with Joyce’s formal innovations: How did his audacious narrative experiments transform the novel as a genre? Do his stylistic games break with the realistic tradition or expose its linguistic and epistemological workings? In addition to Dubliners, Portrait of the Artist, and Ulysses, we will read novels by Woolf, Faulkner, Beckett, and Nabokov. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. Enrollment limited to 20. Not open to first-year students.

ENGL1761V The Korean War in Color (CRN16827)
N Hour (W 3-5:20pm)
Daniel Kim
We examine how the Korean War was depicted in U.S. popular culture as it was taking place with a particular focus on how it catalyzed a wholesale transformation of both domestic and transnational narratives of race. In addition to looking at Hollywood film, newspaper and magazine coverage from the 1950, we also analyze how this event has been imagined by Asian American authors many years later. We will read the fiction of Susan Choi, Ha Jin, Richard Kim, and Chang-Rae Lee.

ENGL1761W Modern South Asia: Literature and Theory (CRN17293)
E Hour (MWF 12-12:50pm)
Madhumita Lahiri
This seminar provides an overview of 20th and 21st century writing from and about South Asia. It will serve, in addition, as an introduction to postcolonial studies. Theoretical readings will focus on issues of diaspora; transnational cultural circulation; and subaltern historiography. Fiction will be primarily Anglophone (Anand, Du Bois, Forster, Naipaul, Rushdie, etc.), with some vernacular texts in translation (Chughtai, Limbale, Premchand, Tagore). Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1761X Desiring the Nation: Gender and Nationalism in South Asia (GNSS1960O, CRN17218)
This is a course offered in Gender and Sexuality. Interested students must register for GNSS1960O, CRN17218.

Spring ENGL1760K Reading New York (CRN26513) (URBNXLIST)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Tamar Katz
We will explore narratives of New York City, both fictional and nonfictional, from the early 20th century to the present. Topics to be addressed include immigration, segregation and mobility, cosmopolitanism and the neighborhood, celebrity and postmodernism. Authors may include John Dos Passos, Ann Petry, E. B. White, Jane Jacobs, Rem Koolhaas. Registration limited to English and Urban Studies concentrators. Students from other concentrations should attend class on the first day and will be admitted if space is available. Not open to first-year students. Enrollment limited to 20. Prerequisite: two previous literature classes.

ENGL1760L Bloomsbury and Modernism (CRN26514)
H Hour (TTh 9-10:20am)
Paul Armstrong
This course will explore the contribution of the so-called "Bloomsbury Group" to the development of modernism in Britain. The focus will be on the central literary figures (Virginia Woolf, E. M. Forster, T. S.
Eliot), but attention will also be paid to the visual arts (especially Roger Fry and Post-Impressionism) and social criticism (Lytton Strachey, Leonard Woolf, and John Maynard Keynes). A major question will be how the controversies swirling around Bloomsbury exemplify important debates about modernism. Enrollment limited. Not open to first-year students. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval.

ENGL1760T Literary Africa (CRN23975)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Olakunle George
Explores the sense in which the word "Africa" has come to carry a range of disparate moral, epistemological, and political connotations in literary and related discourses. We will study 19th century autobiographical and travel writing by black African agents of Christian missionary organizations (Ajayi Crowther, Birch Freeman, Philip Quaque, Joseph Wright); critical essays by contemporary scholars of postcolonial cultures (Appiah, Bhabha, Mudimbe, Peel, Pratt); and imaginative literature by African writers (Achebe, Soyinka, Ngugi, Marechera, Vera). Enrollment limited. Not open to first-year students.

ENGL1761P Yeats, Pound, Eliot (CRN23514)
O Hour (Fri 3-5:20pm)
Mutlu Blasing
Readings in the poetry and selected prose of Yeats, Pound, and Eliot. Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1761Q W. G. Sebald and Some Interlocutors (CRN26515) (MCM1503D) (COLT1421O)
K Hour (TTh 2:30-3:50pm)
Timothy Bewes
The works of W. G. Sebald have received a huge amount of critical attention since his death in 2001, particularly from critics interested in the question of the ethics of literature after Auschwitz. But what is Sebald’s literary heritage, and who are his interlocutors? What internal and external connections do his works establish? Besides Sebald’s works, readings will include Stendhal, Kafka, Walser, Borges, Bergson, Resnais, Lanzmann. Banner registrations after classes begin require instructor approval. Enrollment limited to 20. Not open to first-year students.

ENGL1800 INDEPENDENT STUDY IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall and Spring. Tutorial instruction oriented toward a literary research topic in Modern and Contemporary Literatures and Cultures. Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. Instructor’s permission required.

ENGL1900 SPECIAL TOPICS IN CRITICAL AND CULTURAL THEORY

Fall
ENGL1900R Queer Relations: Aesthetics and Sexuality (CRN16779) (MCM1201K) (COLT1812U)
Q Hour (Th 4-6:20 pm)
Jacques Khalip
A study of the relationship between aesthetic thought and sexuality in a variety of literary and cinematic works. We will supplement our readings with ventures into queer theory, emphasizing how art is related to identity, community, race, gender, and ethics. Authors include Wilde, Pater, James, Winterson, Cole, Guibert, Foucault, Bersani, Edelman. Films by Julien and Jarman. DVPS

ENGL1900T The Postcolonial and the Postmodern (CRN16780)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20 pm)
Olakunle George
Explores the contexts and conceptual implications of theories of postmodernism and postcolonialism. Particular attention to intersections and disjunctions between both concepts as attempts to grapple with the challenges of modernity from the vantage point of the late-20th century. Course will end with two novels that address related issues with the tools of fictional narrative: Coetzee’s Foe and Rushdie’s Midnight’s Children. Readings include: Butler, Hall, Jameson, Laclau, Lyotard, Spivak. Not open to first-year students. Enrollment limited to 20.

ENGL1900W  Aesthetic Theory/Cultural Studies (MCM1503E, CRN16846)
This is a course offered in Modern Culture and Media. Interested students must register for MCM1503E (CRN16846).

Spring  ENGL1900D Literature and Politics (CRN26519) (MCM1202B)
P Hour (Tues 4-6:20pm)
William Keach
Literature as a changing historical formation that often represents and is always shaped by the practices of organizing, asserting, and controlling power in society. Sustained focus on writings by Raymond Williams, Leon Trotsky, Michel Foucault, Edward Said, Gayatri Spivak, and Terry Eagleton, and on literary texts read from the perspectives of these six theorists (possibly Shakespeare, Milton, Marvell, Swift, Dickens, Gaskell, the Brontes, Victor Serge, Anna Akhmatova).

ENGL1900F Interpretation (CRN26520)
J Hour (TTh 1-2:20pm)
Paul Armstrong
This course will introduce students to the central issues in the theory of interpretation and their implications for critical practice. Topics will include the causes and consequences of interpretive conflict, the availability of tests for validity, the roles of the author and the reader, and the historical, social, and political dimensions of understanding. Readings will include major theoretical statements as well as critical essays and background materials related to three controversial novels.

ENGL1900I Critical Methodologies: Contemporary Literary Theory  (CRN27039) (MCM1503F)
Q Hour (Th 4-6:20pm)
Ellen Rooney
A survey of theories of literature from the early 20th-century to the present, with particular attention to relations between "literary theory" and the broader phenomena of cultural studies and Critical Theory writ large. We will examine the New Critics; structuralism, post-structuralism and new historicism; cultural theory, including psychoanalysis, Marxism, and aesthetic theory. Topics will include literariness and textuality, the reader and subjectivity, narrative and mimesis, and the reemergence of form in contemporary literary studies. Enrollment limited to 20. Not open to first-year students or graduate students.
ENGL1950  SENIOR SEMINAR
This rubric will include seminars designed specifically for senior-year English concentrators. They will focus on a range of theoretical, thematic, and generic topics that will provide advance English undergraduates to explore more profoundly or more synthetically fundamental issues connected to the study of literature in general and literature in English in particular. Although English Honors seniors will be allowed to register for them, these courses will provide a "capstone" experience for all English concentrators during their senior year. Enrollment limited to 20 seniors.

Fall  ENGL1950A Form and Feeling in Renaissance Poetry (CRN17196) (REMS1950A)
M Hour (Mon 3-5:20pm)
Stephen Foley
Renaissance poets laid claim to the ethical power of poetry to move people through imagination. How does formal imitation and innovation create fields of feeling in the poetry of Spenser, Sidney, Shakespeare, Donne, Jonson, and Milton? Enrollment limited to 20 seniors.

Spring  ENGL1950B Literature and the Ideology of the Aesthetic  (CRN26963) (MCM1503H)
M Hour (Mon 3-5:20pm)
William Keach
Theoretical and historical exploration of the idea of literature understood as writing that has the status of art—and of the relation of this idea to the emergence and elaboration of discourses of the aesthetic. First six weeks: decisive eighteenth- and nineteenth-century developments in the meaning of literature as it relates to the aesthetic. Second six weeks: recent positions (especially poststructuralist and Marxist) that figure prominently in current debates. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

ENGL1991  SENIOR HONORS THESIS IN LITERATURES AND CULTURES IN ENGLISH
Seminar and workshops led by the Advisor of Honors in Literatures. Introduces students to sustained literary-critical research and writing skills necessary to successful completion of the senior thesis. Particular attention to efficient ways of developing literary-critical projects, as well as evaluating, incorporating, and documenting secondary sources. Enrollment limited to English concentrators whose applications to the Honors in Literatures program have been accepted. Permission should be obtained from the Professor Mutlu Blasing, Honors Advisor for Literatures and Cultures in English.
Fall  ENGL1991  (CRN11429)
M Hour  (Mon 3-5:20pm)
Tamar Katz

ENGL1992  SENIOR HONORS THESIS IN LITERATURES AND CULTURES IN ENGLISH
Fall (CRN17331) Spring (CRN21030). Independent research and writing under the direction of a faculty member.  Primarily for Graduate Students

ENGL2360  GRADUATE SEMINARS IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall  ENGL2360R  Civil Wars, Restoration, and Early Georgian Literature (CRN16828)
M Hour (Mon 3-5:20pm)
Melinda Rabb
The seminar will consider major works from the English Civil Wars to the first years of the eighteenth-century, with attention to cultural and theoretical contexts for understanding important developments such as print culture, war, nation-formation, the marketplace, and public/private spheres. Writers will include Milton, Rochester, Behn, Restoration playwrights, Dryden, Swift, and others. Additional readings will include selections from Adorno, Pocock, Anderson, Zizek, Brown, Johns, and others. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students.

ENGL2360S Alternative Miltons (CRN17383)
Q Hour (Thurs 4-6:20pm)
Richard Rambuss
This seminar undertakes a close reading of Milton’s monumentally significant epic Paradise Lost. We will also consider the current state of Milton criticism. What’s new in Milton criticism? What approaches have been holding fort? Has Milton criticism been slower to take to critical and theoretical innovation than Shakespeare criticism? If so, why, and what might we do about it? On that account, the seminar will engage a range of newer approaches—disability studies, queer theory, trauma theory, eco-criticism, animal studies, technoculture studies, and popular culture studies—to consider what they have to offer by way of new perspectives on Milton. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students.

ENGL2400  GRADUATE INDEPENDENT STUDY IN MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall and Spring.
Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. May be repeated for credit. Instructor’s permission required.

ENGL2560  GRADUATE SEMINARS IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall  ENGL2561B  Things Not Entirely Possessed: Romanticism and History (CRN16829) (MCM2300E) (COLT2820X)
Tues. Noon-2:20 pm
Jacques Khalip
This course explores how Romanticism thinks through the historical, and in particular, it engages Romantic mediations of historical knowledge through aesthetic form. What is the relationship of the aesthetic to the historical? How is subjectivity an effect of a poem’s negotiation of the past? And what role does the “future” play in Romanticism? Authors will include Liu, Pfau, Levinson, McGann, Goodman, Chandler, Ferris, Pyle. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students.

Spring  ENGL2560E Liberalism (CRN 26524)
Q Hour (Thurs 4-6:20pm)
Philip Gould
An interdisciplinary approach to American culture and literary history through the lens of liberal ideologies. Readings include Franklin, Thoreau, sentimental novel, and Ellison’s Invisible Man. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students. Exceptions with permission by instructor.

ENGL2600  GRADUATE INDEPENDENT STUDY IN THE ENLIGHTENMENT AND THE RISE OF NATIONAL LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall and Spring. Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. May be repeated for credit. Instructor’s permission required.

ENGL2760  GRADUATE SEMINARS IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES
Fall  ENGL2760M Postcoloniality, Globalism, Diaspora (CRN16784)
N Hour (Wed 3-5:20pm)
Olakunle George
Introduces students to the intellectual current that has come to be called “postcolonial theory” in contemporary criticism. We read influential theoretical writings alongside literary texts by writers and critics associated with concepts of postcoloniality, transnationalism, or diaspora. We thus combine theoretical with literary texts in order to explore intersections or disjunctions between idioms, genres, and philosophical investments on such inter-related concepts and problematics as: nationalism, biopower, globalization, diaspora, or the claims of literature on the arena of the present. Texts by: Coetzee, Fanon, Gordimer, Naipaul, Said, Spivak, and Walcott. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students.

ENGL2760P The ‘50s in Color: Race, Empire, and U.S. Cold War Culture (CRN17323)
O Hour (Fri 3-5:20pm)
Daniel Kim
Examines U.S. cultural texts of the ‘50s in relation to both domestic race politics and foreign policy concerns. Explores issues of assimilation, conflict, containment, development, and integration in a transnational as well as a national framework. Writers we study may include Ralph Ellison, Jack Kerouac, Phillip Roth, John Okada and Jade Snow Wong. This course is limited to graduate students.

Spring

ENGL2760A American Modernist Poetry and Poetics (CRN26899)

Tues 12-2:20pm

Mutlu Blasing

Study of the poetry and prose of Eliot, Pound, Stevens, Williams, H.D., Moore, and Hughes, with additional readings in criticism and theories of modernism. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students.

ENGL2760Z African American Literature After 1965: Nationalism and Dissent (CRN26594)

O Hour (Fri 3-5:20pm)

Rolland Murray

Since the late 1960s, major theoretical and literary currents in African American letters have been profoundly influenced by black nationalism. This seminar examines the persistence of nationalist thought in ongoing debates about racial authenticity, gender inequality, black aesthetics, and diasporic politics. In so doing we will attend to both the complexity of nationalist ideology and the dissent generated by it. Authors include Baraka, Cruse, Giovanni, Morrison, Senna, Whitehead, and Gilroy. Open to graduate students only.

ENGL2800 GRADUATE INDEPENDENT STUDY IN MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY LITERATURES AND CULTURES

Fall and Spring. Section numbers and CRNs vary by instructor. May be repeated for credit. Instructor’s permission required.

ENGL2900 ADVANCED TOPICS IN CRITICAL AND CULTURAL THEORY

Fall

ENGL2900M The Reading Effect and the Persistence of Form (CRN17317) (MCM2110E)

Q Hour (Thurs 4-6:20pm)

Ellen Rooney

This course examines the “reading effect” as it emerges in work on the question of form and contemporaneous scholarship on the problematics of reading. We will trace the ways in which these related but distinct critical idioms negotiate concepts of mutual concern (interpretation, representation, the reading subject/reading brain). Topics include “new formalism,” cognitive studies, symptomatic reading. Theorists from Althusser and deMan to Marcus, Wolfson and Zunshine. Enrollment limited to 15 graduate students; undergraduate seniors may enroll with instructor permission.

ENGL2950 SEMINAR IN PEDAGOGY AND COMPOSITION THEORY

An experimental and exploratory investigation into writing as preparation for teaching college-level writing. Reviews the history of writing about writing, from Plato to current discussions on composition theory. Against this background, examines various processes of reading and writing. Emphasizes the practice of writing, including syllabus design. Priority given to students in the English Ph.D. program. Undergraduates admitted only with permission of the instructor.

Fall

ENGL2950 (CRN11435)

P Hour (T 4-6:20pm)

Lawrence Stanley

ENGL2970 PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION PREPARATION (no course credit)
Fall (CRN11436) and Spring (CRN21037). For graduate students who have met the tuition requirement and are paying the registration fee to continue active enrollment while preparing for a preliminary examination.

ENGL2990  THESIS PREPARATION (No Course Credit)
Fall (CRN11437) and Spring (CRN21038). For graduate students who have met the tuition requirement and are paying the registration fee to continue active enrollment while preparing a thesis.
