The Program in Judaic Studies Announces

STUDENT RESEARCH GRANTS

Prize: Up to $1,000

Deadline: March 30, 2015

The Program in Judaic Studies aims to promote and support the study of Jews and Judaism across Brown. To that end, we announce research grants for Brown undergraduate and graduate students working in related fields.

DETAILS

Funds may be used in a wide variety of ways, including acquisition of research materials, traveling to research sites, etc. Preference will be given to those who have taken courses in or who plan to work with an adviser in the Program in Judaic Studies. Grant proposals can be for as little as $250 but should not exceed $1000.

GUIDELINES

Application materials should be sent to Program Manager, Susan Rottenberg at Susan_Rottenberg@brown.edu and should include a 1-2 page description of the project that explains how the student will use the funds. Spring 2015 deadline is March 30, 2015.
