Craig M. Cogut Dissertation Fellowship in Latin American and Caribbean Studies 2016-2017

The Center for Latin American & Caribbean Studies announces a twelve-month dissertation fellowship for graduate students at Brown University who are in the writing stage of their dissertation. The fellowships are open to students in any department whose dissertation is directly relevant to Latin America and/or the Caribbean. The awards consist of a full year’s stipend and payment of enrollment and health fees. Applications will be evaluated by a committee comprised of faculty affiliated with the Center for Latin American & Caribbean Studies. Awardees will be expected to make a presentation about their research in the Center’s lecture series and to participate actively in the Center’s activities.

Interested applicants should submit:

(1) Cover sheet with name, department, box number, home address and telephone number, e-mail, and dissertation title.
(2) Brief (2-3 page) description of the dissertation topic.
(3) Summary of progress made on the dissertation to date.
(4) Precise timetable for the twelve-month period covered by the fellowship.
(5) CV
(6) Two letters of support, including one from the chair of the applicant’s dissertation committee.

Applicants should submit electronic copies of items (1) through (5) to kate_goldman@brown.edu. Letters of support should be sent directly by the recommender to kate_goldman@brown.edu

Applications for the 2016-2017 academic year are due no later than April 1, 2016.
