Key Recommendations
♦ Discuss finances early and candidly with your family. Do not wait until you are accepted to consider your options.
♦ Be open-minded, persistent and thorough in educating yourself regarding funding and loan repayment options.
♦ Understand your tolerance level for debt and balance the weight of your educational debt with realistic estimates of your future income as a physician.
♦ Apply for private scholarships and loans.
♦ Meet the deadlines!
♦ If you have a car loan, pay it off before starting medical school.
♦ Obtain a copy of your credit report. Go to https://www.annualcreditreport.com to request a free copy annually.
♦ Stay current with all credit card payments and pay off credit card debt before starting medical school. Your creditworthiness is a factor in determining your eligibility for private student loans.
♦ Seek information and guidance from the financial aid offices at the medical schools where you have applied.

Types of Funding at Brown
♦ External Financial Aid
  Examples: Federal unsubsidized student loans, federal scholarships, loans and grants from private sources. Eligibility for external aid IS NOT based upon parents’ financial resources. Only student and spousal resources are considered.

♦ Institutional Financial Aid:
  Examples: Alpert Medical School loans and scholarships. Eligibility for institutional aid generally IS based upon parents’ financial resources as well as student and spousal resources regardless of age, marital status or dependency status. Students who qualify for institutional aid generally also receive financial aid from external sources, typically federal student loans. In addition to the need-based scholarship aid we offer, the Admissions Office makes available a limited number of merit-based scholarships.

How are a Family’s Resources Analyzed?
♦ Parental Contribution: based upon a combination of prior year income and accumulated assets, number of family members, number enrolled in college, age of parents. AMS does review special circumstances (e.g., care for elderly parents, out-of-pocket medical expenses) on a case-by-case basis.
♦ Student (and Spouse) Contribution: similar criteria as for parents.

Components of a Financial Aid Award
♦ Base Loan Concept: for students who qualify for institutional funding, a fixed amount of your need is first met with a combination of loans, commonly referred to as the base loan. The base loan varies by class year. All remaining need is covered with AMS scholarships. The base loan amount for the 2013-2014 year is $28,500. The base loan amount for 2014-15 will be set in April, 2014.
