Mindfulness, Healing and Empathy in Healthcare

Warren Alpert Medical School – Lecture Hall 160

MINDFULNESS, PALLIATIVE CARE AND THE DOCTOR-PATIENT RELATIONSHIP

Anthony Back, MD, is Professor of Medicine at the University of Washington, where he is the co-director of the Cambia Palliative Care Center of Excellence. His research has been funded by the National Cancer Institute, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Livestrong, and others, and focuses on improving patient-clinician communication.

He is author of the book Mastering Communication with Seriously Ill Patients, creator of the VitalTalk iOS app, and founder of VitalTalk, a nonprofit social enterprise aimed at disseminating communication skills that clinicians need to care for patients with serious illness. He is also Senior Faculty at the Upaya Institute’s “Being with Dying” course, where he teaches with Roshi Joan Halifax, PhD and Cynda Rushton, PhD, RN, FAAN.

NEXT LECTURE: Compassionate care for healthcare practitioners
Susan Bauer-Wu, PhD, RN, FAAN
President of the Mind and Life Institute
March 3rd, 2016
Smith-Buonanno Hall Room 106
95 Cushing Street
(Special Location on College Hill)

Please visit our website:
www.brown.edu/go/mindfulness

This series is supported by the generosity of the Berkman Landis Family Foundation.