

KELLY DOBSON

ARTIST

TALK

Kelly Dobson's highly interdisciplinary background spans medicine, art, technology, and culture. She earned three advanced degrees from MIT where she trained in art, media arts and sciences, engineering, and anthropology. She served as department head of Digital + Media for four years at RISD was the founder/director of the Data Visceralization Research Group. Dobson is currently a Fellow at Google.

Mon, March 21, 2016, 11am
Martinos Auditorium, Room 110
Granoff Center for the Creative Arts,
154 Angell Street

Sponsored by the Office of the Vice Provost for the Arts and Department of Modern Culture and Media

arts
@Brown

