THE OUTSIDERS (1983)
Directed by Francis Ford Coppola
Ponyboy (C. Thomas Howell), Sodapop (Rob Lowe), Darrel (Patrick Swayze), Johnny (Ralph Macchio), Dallas (Matt Dillon) Two-Bit (Emilio Esteves), and Steve (Tom Cruise) make up the Greasers—a gang of low-income kids living in Tulsa, Oklahoma in the mid 1960’s. In a heated fight, Johnny kills a young teen from their rival gang, the Socs, setting off a turbulent chain of events. Coppola’s film, which was an adaptation of a novel of the same name by E.S. Hinton, established the 1980’s Brat Pack.

KIDS (1995)
Directed by Larry Clark
Larry Clark’s controversial quasi-documentary style film follows a group of New York City teens as they look for sex, drugs, and trouble. The film opens with 16-year-old Telly (Leo Fitzpatrick) convincing a 13-year-old virgin (Sarah Henderson) to sleep with him. He is on a quest to sleep with another virgin before the day is out. Jennie (Chloë Sevigny) has just found out that she is HIV positive and having only ever slept with one person, sets out to find Telly and let him know that he has infected her.
