

BROWN
School of Public Health

i-BSHS Seminar Series:

Health Disparities & Community Engagement

Transgender Health: Lessons from the Field and Future Directions

Friday, October 25, 2019 ♦ 12:00pm – 12:55pm
121 South Main St, Room 245

Jay A. Irwin is an Associate Professor of Sociology at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

He is also an Associate Director of the Midlands Sexual Health Research Collaborative, an interdisciplinary research group focused on sexuality, sexual health, and gender-based inquiries. He is also a member of PTRN: Professional Transgender Resource Network of Nebraska, an interdisciplinary group dedicated to increasing knowledge of trans identities and needs among professional fields such as healthcare, legal and policy, and education. His research focuses on LGBT health experiences, trans identities, and topics of queer and trans inclusion in medicine and higher education.

The i-BSHS (Innovations in Behavioral and Social Health Sciences) lecture series fosters collaborative discussion on innovative behavioral and social science-based approaches to improving population health.

Guest sponsorship provided by:
School of Public Health, Diversity & Inclusion Office

Department of Behavioral and Social Sciences,
C.V. Starr Foundation