Reproductive Justice and Women’s Voices: Health Communication across the Lifespan

Beth Sundstrom, PhD, MPH
Assistant Professor, Communication and Public Health
College of Charleston

Thursday, April 14, 2016
12:00 to 1:00 PM
121 S. Main Street, Room 245

Dr. Sundstrom is a member of the graduate faculty and the Co-Director of the Women’s Health Research Team (WHRT). She holds an adjunct assistant professor appointment at the Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC) and serves as a SmartState faculty associate in the Technology Center to Promote Healthy Lifestyles at the Arnold School of Public Health at the University of South Carolina (USC). Dr. Sundstrom’s research interests include health communication, social marketing, and women’s health. She is the author of Reproductive Justice and Women’s Voices: Health Communication across the Lifespan (2015), which offers an in-depth analysis of women’s reproductive health, including contraceptive use dynamics, pregnancy, childbirth, and the postpartum period. Dr. Sundstrom’s public health communication campaigns have received national recognition, including the 2014 multimedia award by the American Public Health Association (APHA). She was also the 2015 recipient of the South Carolina Coalition for Healthy Families’ Crescent Award for her extraordinary leadership, participation, and contributions to comprehensive sexual and reproductive health in South Carolina.