Barbara Anton Internship Grant
Students planning to do a senior honors thesis involving an internship or volunteer work in a community agency are eligible to apply for the Barbara Anton Internship Grant awarded annually by the Pembroke Center for Teaching and Research on Women. The work must be in some way related to the welfare of women or children and the $1,000 grant used to further research. The grant commemorates Barbara Anton’s many contributions to the Pembroke Center over nearly two decades as Director of the Pembroke Associates organization.

2000/2001    Dara Kay Cohen
2001/2002    Laura Hughes
2002/2003    Emma Kuby
2003/2004    Jammei Delphine Huang
2004/2005    Keally DeWitt
2005/2006    Bathsheba Demuth
2006/2007    Sarah Adler-Milstein, Development Studies
             Union of Workers of the Company BJ&B in the Dominican Republic—study of issues related to women, unions and the global market
2007/2008    Alison Fairbrother, Development Studies
             Intern for African Services Committee (ASC) based in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, to create a pilot program in pediatric case management for HIV positive women and children living on an isolated mountaintop
2008/2009    Alison Cohen, Community Health
             Community-Based Participatory Epidemiology: Developing, Conducting, and Analyzing an Environmental Health Assessment with Communities for a Better Environment
2009/2010    William Lambek, Portuguese and Brazilian Studies; Africana Studies
             Migratory Identities: Political Identity Formation and Immigrant Community Organizing
2010/2011    Samuel McGowan, Africana Studies
             Patients and Power: The Development of a Health Infrastructure Gone Awry in Kibera, Kenya
2011/2012    Chishio Furukawa, Applied Math-Economics; Environmental Studies
             Reading by solar lamps, replacing kerosene candles: Randomized evaluation of solar lamps as alternative to kerosene candles for children’s study in rural Ugandan households
2012/2013    Julia Ellis-Kahana, Sociology
             Sailing a Social Movement into a Social Nonmovement: A Case Study of Self-Empowerment for Safe Abortion in Morocco
2013/2014    Evelyn Sanchez, American Studies
             State Sanctioned Motherhood
2014/2015    Elaine Hsiang, Health and Human Biology
             Mapping (Un)Safe Spaces: LGBTQ Health Since the HIV/AIDS Epidemic
2015/2016  Yacine Sow, Health and Human Biology
   Project CARE Video Series: Encouraging Women to Make Contraceptive Choices while Incarcerated

2016/2017  Sage Fanucchi-Funes, Gender and Sexuality Studies, American Studies
   Class and Racial Entanglements in Contemporary Midwifery

2017/2018  Cleveish Bogle, Anthropology, Human Biology
   Articulating the Impact of Creative Youth Development on ¡City Arts!

2018/2019  Sophie Kupetz, History
   Prisoners Against Rape

Barbara Anton Community Research Grant
Undergraduate students doing an honors thesis involving community work related to the welfare of women and children are eligible to apply for the Barbara Anton Community Research Grant. The grant commemorates Barbara Anton’s many contributions to the Pembroke Center over nearly two decades as Director of the Pembroke Associates organization.

2019/2020  Scarlett Bergam, Public Health
   “They should be taught self-respect, self-confidence and self-love”: The impact of education and conflicting social pressures on the sexual behaviors of South African Adolescents Living With HIV