

The Department of Africana Studies at Brown University presents:

Transnational Feminism and the Black Diaspora Symposium

November 13, 2009 9:00am-5:00pm Joukowsky Forum
The Watson Institute for International Studies
111 Thayer Street Brown University Providence, RI

This symposium will examine the intersections of diaspora theory, transnationalism, identity formation, transformative politics and community highlighting black women's radical knowledge, gendered racism and resistance from a global perspective.

Symposium Keynote Address:

"The Politics and Poetics of Transnational Black Feminism: Claudia Jones and the Art of Black Communism"

Carole Boyce-Davies
Cornell University

Symposium Speakers:

Faye V. Harrison '74

Director of African American Studies and Professor of Anthropology, University of Florida

Zine Magubane

Associate Professor and Chair of Sociology, Boston College

Jafari S. Allen

Assistant Professor of Anthropology, Yale University

Jennifer Williams

Assistant Professor of English and African-American Studies, Michigan State University; Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of English, New York University

The symposium has been made possible by the generous funding from the following institutional partners:

Department of Anthropology
Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies
Center for the Study of Race and Ethnicity in America
The Harmon Family Fund
The Heimark Fund
Office of the Dean of the Faculty
Pembroke Center for Teaching and Research on Women

This event is free and open to the public. For additional information, please visit: www.brown.edu/Departments/Africana_Studies/events